Flying Tackle By Storekeeper Stops Escapade

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — "The cops have enough of a job. They need all the help they can get," says a storekeeper whose tackle ended the 560-mile flight of a convict who escaped and took four hostages.

Barefoot, wearing prison denim and armed with scissors, apparently stolen from the prison barber shop, Jimmy Dee Harvey escaped Monday night from a low-security area outside the walls of San Quentin prison, 15 miles north of San Francisco.

The 24-year-old convict forced his way into a car with two women and two children and raced south to this Orange County community 23 miles south of Los Angeles, dropping the hostages off unhurt along the way.

Police said two letters Harvey received Monday from his girl friend in Fullerton may have prompted him to break out even though he was due for parole in six months after serving nearly four years for car theft. One of the letters was found shredded on his prison bed. The contents were not disclosed.

Police watching the girl friend's house sighted the stolen car Tuesday and chased it at speeds up to 100 miles an hour, firing one shot which smashed a window. Finally the pursued car hit two others and the fugitive ran into a laundry and dry cleaning shop run by Herb Borden, 31.

"He almost knocked me over and pushed me and told me to get out of the way," Borden said. "I hit him high with a flying tackle. I had him so darn tight, when he realized he couldn't move he just lay there."

Move To Restrict Herbicide Called Too Hasty By Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret report by a White House advisory committee suggests President Nixon's former science aide and two federal departments acted hastily in restricting use of a herbicide linked to birth defects in animals.

Disclosure of the critical report coincides with Environmental Protection Agency proceedings to broaden curbs on the weed-killer, 2,4,5-T. The chemical already is banned for most home use and on food crops and for defoliation in South Vietnam.

Relying on tests done for the National Cancer Institute, the departments of agriculture and health, education and welfare have branded 2,4,5-T a health hazard because it caused birth defects in rats and mice.

The two departments subsequently curbed the herbicide under prompting by President Nixon's former science adviser, Dr. Lee A. DuBridge. The only uses now permitted are for weed and brush control on ranges, pastures, forests, rights-of-way and other nonagricultural land.

The secret report of the 10-member White House panel, obtained by The Associated Press, questions existing curbs on 2,4,5-T and the government's reliance on the NCI birth-defects studies.

"To restrict or ban usage of chemicals on the basis of demonstration of teratogenicity (birth defects) at dose levels (which far exceed actual or expected (human) exposures is unreasonable and could well deny usage of chemicals whose benefits far outweigh risks," the report said.

"A decision to restrict the use of 2,4,5-T should not be based on the isolated finding of toxicity but on the expected exposure following recommended use in relation to dose-response effects," it continued.

The scientists said that in the few cases in which 2,4,5-T residues have been found in food, the levels were "well below those which would result in significant toxicity for man."

The study group headed by Dr. Colin M. MacLeod of the New York University Medical Center was appointed, ironically, by DuBridge—the first government official to urge curbs on 2,4,5-T.

A spokesman for the White House Office of Science and Technology said the report submitted some months ago has not been released because some sections still are undergoing minor revision. It has been made available to the Agriculture Department and EPA for comment, he said.

The report, by contrast, urged "prompt and expeditious release of information" on pesticides.

Shelby County Sheriff Named

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — Donald Knasel has been named Shelby County Sheriff, succeeding Donald Laws who has taken a position with the Ohio Liquor Control Board.

Knasel, 36, of nearby Maplewood has been with the sheriff's office for five years. He was selected during a commission meeting Tuesday.

Laws, 30, had served as sheriff for about 2 1/2 years.

Mikva: Army Spies 'Subversives'

Governors Urged To Back Tax Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors he is looking for action, not a political issue, with his proposal that Washington send $5 billion in federal revenue back to financially pressed state and local governments.

He went in person and sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and two top lieutenants Tuesday to urge the governors to help sell revenue sharing and Cabinet reorganization measures in Congress.

In a private appearance before the midwinter governor's conference, Nixon was quoted as saying his proposals represent "the right program at the right time."

Nixon was said to have emphasized that he wanted the program, not a political talking point. Twenty-nine of the governors are Democrats, 21 are Republicans.

And some of them remained skeptical. Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan, a Democrat, said Nixon will blame a Democratic Congress if revenue sharing is rejected; if it is approved, the Republican administration will claim credit.

Gilligan said he prefers a federal takeover of rapidly increasing welfare costs. Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, another Democrat and the conference chairman, said "everybody would be in much better shape" with the federal government financing welfare.

Agnew sought to head off the idea of supplanting the administration plan with federal payment of welfare bills. Such a move, he said, will erode "the unified, massive effort it is going to take to get this through Congress."

Actually, the governors conference has endorsed both plans for new federal aid. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said the governors will make a mistake if they forego the administration program to press for more welfare aid.

"It's utterly unrealistic to expect that the Congress is going to vote to give a few states the vast majority of the money," the Republican governor said.

Cleveland Teachers Vote On Pact

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — With about 90 per cent of the vote in, union leaders still are making no predictions whether Cleveland public school teachers will ratify a proposed new salary agreement with the Board of Education.

About 4,400 of the 5,000 members of the Cleveland Teachers' union voted Tuesday on the agreement, and the favorable votes topped the "nays" by only 400 votes, according to James E. O'Meara, CTU president.

With 600 teachers still to vote, O'Meara declined to make any predictions. The union constitution sets a 10-day voting period.

The proposed agreement would increase the minimum starting pay for a teacher with a bachelor's degree from the present $7,000 a year to $7,450 over a two-year period.

Meanwhile, teachers in suburban Berea voted to walk out Monday if no pay agreement is reached with their school board by 6 p.m. Sunday.

CIRCLEVILLE Band Director Gary Dean donated a pep band and majorettes to provide half-time entertainment at the Heart Fund basketball game last night. They provided sober entertainment in the big battles which are reported today on the sports page.

PATROL Post Commander Lt. James Pribble and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff coached their respective teams in Tuesday's Heart Fund Basketball benefit. Chief of Police Robert Temple turned coaching duties over to Jack Mills and Dick Lamb but was on hand last night to lend moral support. The mayor and the safety director were there. But the fire department team was left to its own devices with Chief Bernard Wolfe conspicuous by his absence.

Tax Sharing Compromise Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high Treasury Department official says the Nixon administration is not seeking a compromise on key details of its revenue-sharing legislation.

Murray L. Weidenbaum, assistant Treasury secretary and head of Nixon's revenue-sharing task force, said Democratic sponsors of an alternate revenue-sharing bill overreacted to an olive branch he extended Monday.

"We're trying to get them to endorse our bill," Weidenbaum said. "We have developed a position very carefully."

When the assistant secretary testified on Capitol Hill Monday, he was asked for his opinion of an alternate revenue-sharing bill introduced by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis.

"They have introduced a good bill and I will not attack it," Weidenbaum said at the time. But, later, he said he meant only that the Democrats' bill is better than one offered last year. "They've come a good part of the way toward our position," he said. "We think ours is a much better bill."

Reuss saw it differently. He said Weidenbaum's statement was conciliatory and indicated Nixon was ready to compromise on key provisions of the bill.

The Humphrey-Reuss measure would attach strings to revenue-sharing and require local governmental reform before any funds would be shipped to the states.

Reuss said the administration will have to compromise if it wants a revenue-sharing bill.

Sidney Police Chief Retiring

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief John Warner, a 39-year veteran of the Sidney police force, announced his retirement today, effective March 15.

Warner, 63, has served as Sidney police chief the last 16 years.

City officials plan to meet with civil service officials this week to set a date for a competitive civil service exam to choose a new chief. Three sergeants are in line for the post: Louis Bernard, Robert Basore and Orville Willey.

MILL ROAD — The Mill Road west of Circleville took on the look of a raging mill stream this morning as the Scioto River rose to 17.6, three and one-half feet above flood stage. Red Bridge Road and Canal Road both suffered the same fate and are currently closed to traffic. The river at Circleville, crested 4 a.m. today and is presently stationary. Waters are expected to recede slowly. Flood waters throughout the county are confined to the areas listed. No property damage has been reported.

South Viet Bases Attacked In Laos; More Copters Lost

SAIGON (AP) — Two South Vietnamese bases inside Laos were under sharp attack late today in a new upsurge of fighting in the drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh trail field reports said.

Six more American helicopters were shot down or damaged in the action around the bases, but no details were available, the accounts said.

One of the bases was said to be north of Highway 9, the main incursion route and the other to the south. Both are 10 miles inside Laos. A South Vietnamese ranger base six miles inside Laos was overrun last week with heavy casualties.

Officials in Saigon said they had no information on the reports of the new fighting. The field reports could not say how many of the helicopters were shot down and how many damaged. Three helicopters were shot down Tuesday.

Tuesday's losses raised to 29 the number of U.S. helicopters reported lost on both sides of the border in the 17-day-old drive into Laos. At least 40 Americans have been killed, 15 are missing and 26 wounded in the crashes.

The big U.S. base at Quang Tri in the northern zone came under rocket attack late tonight.

Immigration Bill Ready In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative government published a controversial bill today that would give the state wide new powers to halt any further "large wave of Commonwealth immigration."

"Our purpose is to secure improved community relations within this country," Home Secretary Reginald Maudling said in a statement accompanying the bill. "Immigration policy therefore should be designed to meet the needs of community relations policy."

The measure makes no direct distinction relating to the racial origins of potential immigrants. But its terms seem as though they are bound to hit harder at nonwhite immigrants from Commonwealth countries than at white immigrants.

Associated Press correspondent William Barton reported.

He said the shelling hit the outer edges of the base and lasted about half an hour, but there were no immediate reports of casualties or damage. Quang Tri is temporary headquarters for the U.S. 24th Corps, the parent unit directing American activities in support of the Laos drive.

Nixon's Plan Would Give City $145,974

Circleville will receive $145,974 under President Richard Nixon's proposed $5 billion revenue sharing program bill if attached.

The bill provides for no-strings-attached grants to localities and according to Mayor Richard Gearhardt could probably be used in the general fund.

The only direct federal grant Circleville has received recently is the $20,000 for the Master Plan. However, Mayor Gearhardt is quick to explain the only reason more has not been earmarked for Circleville is because the city has not applied for federal assistance.

Mayor Gearhardt said the main concern of governors and mayors was that other federal grants might be cutoff if the new bill is approved.

Pickaway County will receive $89,242 under the new bill in its final year.

Air Guard Group Will Reorganize

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced plans Tuesday to reorganize the 910th Tactical Air Support Group reserves at Youngstown, Ohio, as a special operations outfit.

The group, located at Youngstown Municipal Airport, will convert from U3 to A37 aircraft, a twin-engine jet attack plane for close air support.

said American air strikes have wiped out huge North Vietnamese war stockpiles on the Ho Chi Minh trail, including an estimated 800 tons of ammunition, more than 120 caches of weapons and supplies and 330 vehicles. It also reported four fuel pipelines cut.

The command also reported air attacks on three more missile sites in North Vietnam which it said threatened U.S. B52 bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail.

For the seventh successive day, no forward movement was reported by the 16,000 South Vietnamese ground troops (Continued on Page 2)

I-70 Crash Near Newark Fatal To 6

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Six persons were killed and three were hurt early today when an automobile crossed the median strip of Interstate 70 in eastern Licking County and crashed into a tractor-trailer rig.

None of those killed, four adults and two infants, was identified immediately. The auto carried Massachusetts license plates.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said it appeared the auto may have skidded on ice and gone out of control. It was headed east, and the truck, driven by Gary W. Miller, 28, of Casey, Ill., was westbound. Miller was unhurt, but his relief driver, Marion J. Bartram, 46, of Marshall, Ill., was treated for minor injuries.

There were eight persons in the auto. One, Harold Morton, 23 of New Bedford, Mass., was taken to Bethesda Hospital in Zanesville with a possible fractured hip and multiple lacerations. His condition was reported as poor.

Another occupant of the car was identified tentatively by officials at Good Samaritan Hospital in Zanesville only as Jack Smith, 22. He is in critical condition.

The patrol said the crash came at 3:42 a.m. at a point 4.3 miles west of the Muskingum County line.

Illinois Solon Blasts Actions On Civilians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accounts of massive military spying on civilians were amplified before Congress today and Rep. Abner Mikva, a reported target himself, denounced the officers responsible as "the true subversives of our society."

Former Army intelligence staffers Ralph Stein, John O'Brien and Christopher H. Pyle testified, in considerable length and detail, that the military drastically exceeded its claim of limiting domestic surveillance to possible insurrection situations.

Among dozens of other examples given Sen. Sam Ervin's constitutional rights subcommittee, the three men said agents infiltrated scores of peaceful antiwar gatherings, monitored the 1968 Republican and Democratic national conventions, and filed running reports on the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

O'Brien's remarks included the widely publicized charge that his former unit, the 113th Military Intelligence Group in Illinois, had spied upon a number of public officials, including Mikva.

Mikva, following O'Brien to the witness stand, declared his first reaction had been one of "shock and outrage." "In time," added the Democrat in a prepared statement, "these feelings gave way to a deeper sadness over the unavoidable message this brought as to the kind of society we have become."

Mikva urged making it a crime for any military personnel to engage in any snooping on civilians. And he called for "the removal of those responsible" for such activity in the past, despite new Pentagon assurances that abuses will not be repeated. "Those military officials who would arrogate to themselves the duty to watch peaceful civilians' political activities are the true subversives in our society," said Mikva.

"If allowed to continue, they will end up creating a climate of fear and suspicion in this country the likes of which would make Joseph McCarthy look like a civil libertarian."

Already, said Mikva, much damage has been done.

Stein testified he ran a "left wing desk" for the Counterintelligence Analysis Branch, with offices near Washington, and became thoroughly convinced before his late 1968 discharge that domestic snooping is "an

U.S. Wins Pancake Race Again

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP) — Barbara Rinehart, a 24-year-old housewife and mother of one, is the new international pancake race champion.

The 5-foot-3 brunette outran Liberal and British opponents over a 415-yard course to keep the title in America in the annual Shrove Tuesday event. The women carry skillets and must flip pancakes at least twice during the race.

Mrs. Rinehart's time was 67.7 seconds—three-tenths of a second better than Ruth Faulkner, who ran in Olney, England earlier in the day. American and English competitors now have won 11 times each.

The Liberal course was slushy and slick in spots in the aftermath of Monday's 12-inch snowfall.

Shirley Hammond led until she fell about 20 feet from the finish.

In Olney, 20 ran the course in bright spring weather.

Police Seek Man In Loan Firm Holdup

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police were searching for a man who robbed the Home State Savings Association in the Mount Washington section Tuesday of $1,737 and herded two female employees into a restroom.

Police said that the man, wearing a golf hat, ordered one of the women to put money into a brown paper bag.

The man, who said he had a gun, fled on foot.

Calley Tells Court All Viets At My Lai Were 'Enemies'

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Three members of the jury, opposing attorneys and Lt. William L. Calley Jr. were called into the judge's chambers today and the My Lai trial was temporarily delayed.

It was not learned why the judge tried W. Kennedy had summoned the principal parties and jury members. But defense attorney George Latimer said, there had been an unusual development. He did not elaborate.

There was no comment from the prosecution.

The trial resumed after a one-hour delay, following a day in which Calley took the stand.

He talked about the men, women and children of My Lai as being all part of the enemy—the people he'd been ordered to destroy.

"I didn't discriminate between individuals in the village, sir," he testified Tuesday at his murder trial.

Calley appeared edgy and worried-looking at the start of cross-examination, which continues today.

But his answers were crisp and capped with military "sir" as prosecutor Aubrey Daniel, an Army captain, led him through the day nearly three years ago, on which the Army charges Calley murdered 102 villagers with premeditation.

Calley told how the 27 men in his platoon started through the village with their guns blazing, firing "at the enemy."

He said he did not discriminate between men, women and children because "they were all the enemy, they were all to be destroyed."

Calley's testimony differed in a number of ways from that of some of the 74 witnesses who preceded him to the stand in the small, windowless courtroom.

He said he changed the magazine of 18 bullets in his M16 rifle only once that March 16, 1968—and that at lunch time when the shooting was over.

David Paul Meadlo, a soldier in Calley's platoon who said he stood beside the lieutenant shooting into large groups of people on two occasions, said Calley changed magazines four or five times at the first spot and 10 to 15 times at the second.

The charges against Calley are that he killed or ordered the killing of at least 30 at a trail intersection inside the village and at least 70 at a ditch at the eastern edge.

Calley admitted that he directed the shooting at the ditch and also fired into it.

But to a question whether he was at the trail intersection and "whether you saw any group of people or group of bodies along that trail" Calley replied: "No sir, I did not."

He testified he was prodded twice by Capt. Ernest Medina, his company commander, over the radio to move the villagers faster to the other side of the ditch, a landmark on the eastern side of the village.

Calley said one purpose of taking prisoners was to move them ahead of troops as human probes for mines.

Calley said he ran into Meadlo and asked him whether he knew what he was supposed to do with the people.

Q. What did he say?

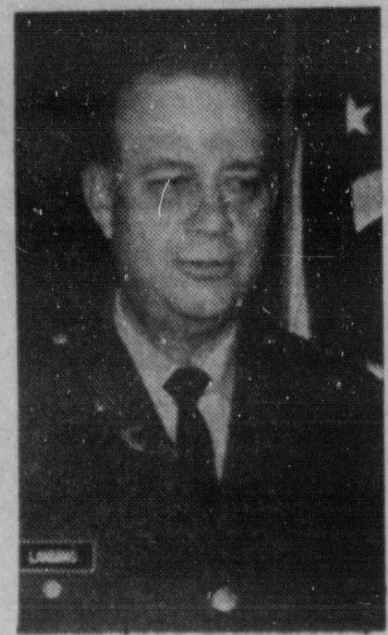

A. He said he did, sir. I told him to get moving, sir.

Q. What did you mean when you said to have him 'get moving'?

A. Get the people moving, get them on the other side of the ditch.

Students Hear General Talk On Freedom

GEN. CALVIN LANNING

The Circleville Sertoma Club, in cooperation with Sertoma International, is observing Freedom Week here.

As a part of program, Freedom Week Chairman Paul Woods, arranged for Brig. Gen. Calvin Lanning to speak to an assembly at Circleville Junior High School Tuesday.

Gen. Lanning is the state assistant to the adjutant general. He served in World War II and was appointed to his present post on Jan. 11.

Each of the seventh graders was presented a copy of the United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights by the Circleville Sertoma Club.

Also as part of the local program, place mats have been distributed to local restaurants and book markers to the Pickaway County Library.

Sertoma International recently received the Distinguished Service award from Freedom Foundations at Valley Forge for its promotion of American Ideals.

Ashville Voters To Decide On Vacating Streets

Ashville Citizen's Committee through Chairman Robert Hoover, Tuesday filed a referendum petition with the village clerk asking that a village ordinance be placed before voters. The ordinance, No. 853, concerns vacating of certain Ashville streets and alleys in Cromley's 6th Addition to Guy Leatherwood.

The petition, circulated by the three-member citizen's committee, contained 159 signatures. Its purpose is to place the said ordinance on the ballot for public vote to accept or reject the proposed abandonments.

It is not yet known whether the issue will appear on the May Primary or November general election ballot. Voters will be advised.

South Viet ... Terror Bombing Penalty Studied By Ohio House whose forwardmost elements are 16 miles inside Laos, according to their government.

The South Vietnamese military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, retreated today from his statement Tuesday that Saigon's forces had no intention to advance farther. He told his daily briefing for correspondents.

"We would like to clarify what we wanted to say. The purpose of the operation in Laos is not to occupy territory. It is to disrupt the enemy supply lines and to make the enemy supply flow more difficult. Concerning whether the ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) will make further advances, we have nothing to say on that."

Although hundreds of U.S. planes have been bombing the enemy supply network in Laos every day for months, the U.S. Command's claim of damage caused by its air operations covered only the period from the start of the South Vietnamese ground thrust into Laos on Feb. 8 through this morning. Some observers believed that announcement was made to divert attention from the stalled South Vietnamese ground drive.

activity the military should not be undertaking in the first place."

Both he and Pyle said that, even with the closing down of the Army's central data bank on civilians at Ft. Holabird, Md., there were several other military computer and record-keeping centers with such information, including a 100,000-frame microfilm library at Stein's former office.

"Most of the information collected," he continued, "was not of any value in determining the possibility of civil disturbances and the collection of such information constituted complete monitoring of political affairs."

He made the same point regarding files on individuals. These reports, he said, "did bare the individual's life and secrets. Financial information, sexual activities, personal beliefs and associations were all reported in great detail."

Among the personalities in the CIAB microfilm files, he recalled, were Dr. King, folk singer Joan Baez and Arlo Guthrie, black Georgia legislator Julian Bond, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, Dr. Benjamin Spock, and four generals who have expressed antiwar sentiments.

Stein said he and operators of the "Right Wing" and "Racial" desks constantly were asked for political briefings by superiors both in and out of the Pentagon.

Daley Wins Ballot Spot In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley retained overwhelming control of City Council in Tuesday's aldermanic elections and romped to an uncontested Democratic nomination for a fifth term.

Although there was little change in council's political balance a Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Francis X. Lawlor, was elected, and a woman, Marilou Hedlund, won a seat for the first time.

Daley polled 365,575 votes in final unofficial returns. His opponent for the April 6 election Richard Friedman, received 38,367 in the Republican primary.

The election brought little change to the 50-member non-partisan council, which will see 38 Democrats, 4 Republicans and 5 independents seated.

Daley said at a Tuesday night news conference that his campaign will be "very positive and constructive." There will be no debates with Friedman, he said.

President Plans Foreign Affairs Radio Address

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will address the nation by radio Thursday on his foreign policy message that goes to Congress later that day.

The White House announced Tuesday the President will appear on all four major radio networks and a number of independent radio stations at 11 a.m. EST.

The 30-minute speech will relate to foreign policy and the administration's thinking in regard to its diplomatic decisions — largely the review Nixon is providing in his "State of the World" report to Congress.

The speech, to be broadcast from the White House, will touch in general terms on Indochina but will not refer specifically to current military operations, a spokesman for the President said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House will turn its attention to terror bombing today.

Rep. George E. Mastics, R-52 Cleveland, is scheduled to introduce a bill that would make the

Laos News Restrictions To Be Eased

SAIGON (AP) — High-ranking sources said today the U.S. Command is about to loosen slightly restrictions that have made news coverage of the Vietnamese American operation in southern Laos the most incomplete of the war.

They said officers are "working out the details" for a press helicopter to cross the border and take correspondents to the front. The craft now flies only to comparatively inactive American camps in Vietnam near the frontier.

Apparently the seven-passenger helicopter will be the only U.S. craft for the 60 correspondents at the front. In other operations newsmen are allowed to fly in any aircraft when space is available. Since the operation began Feb. 8, the command has invoked a Defense Department edict against using military aircraft to carry civilians across international boundaries.

No policy change has been announced.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam met Monday with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, and sources said one of their topics was the "bad press" the Lao-tian operation is getting. They were said to be concerned about dispatches reporting that the operation was stalled and in trouble.

The South Vietnamese have an open invitation for American correspondents to ride their helicopters into Laos, but due to their scarcity many newsmen have waited for days at government posts without catching a ride.

Another point journalists must consider is that the South Vietnamese pilots are far less experienced than the Americans.

There is no censorship on dispatches from Vietnam or on those sent from Laos through Saigon. Lack of cooperation by military officials, however, may result in what amounts to a censorship at the source. As in all wars, the transport of correspondents to active areas must come through military channels.

Crocker Coupon Collection Progress Noted

Mrs. Helen Knece, area representative of the Central Ohio Kidney Foundation, reported a recent collection of Crocker coupons in the county totaled 41,230.

The coupons are used to purchase dialysis machines for kidney patients. A machine for hospital use requires 600,000 coupons, home use, 300,000.

Through the coupon arrangement with General Mills whose packaged products carry a coupon, the Central Ohio Kidney Foundation has purchased five kidney machines. Three are hospital machines, two are for home use. By supplying the artificial kidney machines, cost of the use (about $300 per treatment) is measurably reduced.

Coupon collection locally will continue through May 15 for the purchase of additional kidney machines. Area collection points are in Ashville at the Coffee Shop, at each cottage of Orient State Institute and in Circleville at the Salvation Army store, the Police Department and Revco and Bingham Drug stores.

Coupons may also be mailed to Mrs. Knece at Route 1, Kingston.

Winnie Ruth Judd May Be Freed

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Winnie Ruth Judd, who narrowly escaped execution for a trunk murder committed in 1931, will be freed from prison if Gov. Jack Williams accepts a recommendation by the state Board of Pardons and Paroles.

By a 2-1 vote, the board recommended Tuesday that her life sentence be commuted to the time already served.

Mrs. Judd, now 65, was found insane and sent to a state hospital only three days before her scheduled execution. She had been sentenced for the murder of one of two women whose bodies were found in a trunk at a Los Angeles railroad station.

seconds. Harvey apparently had disposed of the scissors and was not armed when caught.

Harvey was flown back to Northern California Tuesday a few hours after his hostages. He will face charges of kidnapping in Marin County, north of San Francisco.

Officials said Harvey had threatened the hostages he took at Novato, 13 miles north of the prison—Joyce Stansfield, 30, the wife of a Novato policeman; her children, Robert, 6, and Suzanne, 5 months, and Cheryl Smith, 23.

"At times I felt absolutely nothing," Mrs. Smith recalled calmly. "Like we were out on a Sunday afternoon drive. Other times there was sheer panic. He occasionally waved the scissors at us."

But usually Harvey seemed friendly, Mrs. Smith said.

"We wanted no harm to come to the children ... At a time like that, heroics just go out the door," she said.

The kidnaper let them stop to buy milk for the baby, Mrs. Smith said. "You can just tell when a person likes children."

The kidnaper let Mrs. Stansfield and the children off near Bakersfield 100 miles north of Los Angeles, and dropped Mrs. Smith off at Anaheim, near Fullerton.

2nd Bank Held Up In WCH

A successful bank hold-up was repeated Tuesday in Washington C. H. when a lone armed bandit robbed the American Loan and Finance Co. at noon. On Jan. 20 in the Fayette County city, a lone bandit entered Associates Financial Services, Inc. during the noon hour and walked away with $600 from the financial institution.

The amount of money stolen Tuesday has not yet been determined.

Authorities say both robberies were similar in their execution. A lone bandit was involved in both. The coups were staged at noon hour with but one employee, a female, on duty at the time.

A description of Tuesday's robber was also very similar to the one who held up Financial Services in January.

The loan company employee, Mrs. William Elliott, was unharmed in the Tuesday escape. She was forced into a cloak room and her legs, hands and mouth taped. She freed herself within five minutes and called the police.

There have been no suspects apprehended for either the January or Tuesday robbery.

Stock Prices Go Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices climbed higher today in active trading despite what analysts described as an unsettling news background.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 6.57 to 876.57.

Advances led declines by almost 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the market's ability to resist recent profit taking showed that investor psychology was still positive.

Utilities and metals were mixed. Steels were unchanged. All other stock categories were higher.

French Demonstrate Rocket For Sale To Other Nations

LANDES TEST STATION, France (AP) — With a flash of white, an eight-foot rocket popped out of a plastic tube mounted on a tank and curved gradually out to sea toward a scarcely visible target plane.

A hundred foreign military attaches, defense ministry officials and journalists watched from a windswept sand dune.

The French officials held their breath, because riding on that slender, 139-pound tube of fuel, electronic gear and explosives was one of France's hopes of enlarging the market for its rocket weapons.

The test Monday was the first in public of the Roland SAM, an anti-aircraft missile which SNIA, the French national aerospace company, developed in 50-50 cooperation with West Germany's Messerschmitt-Bolkow-Blohm.

Last year SNIA sold 322,690 rockets to 35 countries. While this accounted for less than 10 per cent of the total $920 million worth of aerospace exports last year, it still kept thousands employed.

Now France is bringing out a second generation of rockets ranging from the 24-pound Milan, with which a lone soldier should be able to knock off a tank a mile and a quarter away, to the tank-mounted Pluton, designed to wipe out an army camp 75 miles away with a nuclear warhead.

The new Exocet is fired from a patrol boat, and SNIA says it will sink cruisers 20 miles away — far over the horizon. The rocket zips along just over the waves, making it extremely difficult to counter.

The Roland was designed to protect tank columns from air attack. Its tank mount is equipped with radar to pick up approaching planes and identify them as friend or foe. Then, to reduce the cost, a gunner takes over and aims by sight. The company says the effective range is four miles.

The Roland hit the target, but the warhead didn't go off. A second shot exploded prematurely. The prospective buyers shrugged. The next demonstration was a perfect firing of a Milan through a paper target 800 yards away.

But a couple of flukes are negligible when you're shopping for a weapons system, one foreigner said.

"First you define your particular needs," he explained. "Then you choose systems according to how they complement or supplement each other, and according to your money."

Ohio Foundations Back School Study

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Nine major Ohio foundations are contributing $120,000 to finance a statewide study of public school teacher personnel policies, it was announced today.

A 19-member commission, chaired by Stephen Stranahan, chairman and president of Entelco Corp. of Toledo, was named to make the study under the direction of Laurence T. Mayher, a management consultant and former president of the Shaker Heights Board of Education.

We take a hard look at everything. We have computer run after computer run before deciding."

Low price and simplicity were designed into the Roland, said officials of SNIA and MBB. A firing station might cost $1.35 million to $1.44 million, depending on the type of tank, while the rockets would be about $12,600 each.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Widely split opinions regarding the economic outlook have been dramatized on the stock market recently with furious trading activity resulting in relatively sharp price changes.

The net effect has been days of tradeoff between optimists and pessimists, between those who believe President Nixon can achieve his ambitious goals and those who believe he will fail.

Some analysts see the situation as one of the most peculiar in years, with many months. They remember days of over-all indecision, marked by an inertia of both buyer and seller.

On many recent days, however, the heavy trading activity has indicated a firmness of conviction on both sides of transactions. Trading has been spiced with both fear and fervor.

Sooner or later in such a market a break must be expected in either direction, and the catalyst could be the next round of economic indicators, showing the President either winning or losing his battle with inflation.

Some analysts also suggest that a change of fortunes in Southeast Asia could trigger an advance or decline, and technicians, viewing the standoff trading as a seismologist views earthquake faults, feel growing internal pressures will snap.

"Certainly during the last 15 years, no struggle between future 'haves' and 'havenots' has reached anything like the current crescendo," says John Wright, the eminent adviser to trusts and wealthy investors.

Wright notes a great schism of opinion between "the intractable prophets of doom who label the 41 per cent recovery since May as an important rally in a to-be-continued bear market decline," and "the rest of the investment community."

The "rest of the investment community" is quite large, however, and seems to be made up of some of the biggest institutional traders in the business, the professional managers of funds, trusts, and insurance companies.

That conclusion must be reached after reviewing the big-block trades on the New York Stock Exchange, which show average transaction size in January to be 418 shares compared with 327 in December 1968.

Big blocks—those of 10,000 or more shares—were largely responsible for pushing up the size of average trades. In December 1968 they accounted for 12.5 per cent of activity; last month the percentage was 15.8.

Participation by smaller investors is, in the opinion of some analysts, less than might have been expected. Having been burned by the 1969-1970 collapse, they are banking rather than investing in stocks.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN AN EARLY season ball game years ago, then peerless Yankee catcher Yogi Berra unaccountably dropped a pop foul behind the plate, then completed Manager Casey Stengel's discomfiture by explaining in the dugout when the inning was over, "I guess I just nonchalanted it!"

John Marquand, New England socialist and author of a dozen whopping best-sellers, once took violent exception to a statement by a stoutish fellow-dinner guest that writing a book was like building a bridge. "A book," insisted Marquand, "is an idea and a bridge is a thing."

"Wrong!" countered the stoutish gentleman. "A book actually is a bridge—between the author and the reader." "That's a lot of poppycock," snapped Marquand, and stopped just as he was about to add "you damn fool." He suddenly recognized the stoutish gentleman. He was Herbert Hoover.

Houston's leading literary light, George Fuermann, delights in collecting odd want ads that appear in rural Texas dailies. Here are a few recent dilutes:

1. Wanted. Smart young lady to be deceptionist.
2. For Sale: 38-foot cruiser. A beauty. May be seen by appointment. Bring diving helmet.
3. For Sale: Modern house, 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, rumpus room. Extra attraction: family next door is building swimming pool.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What causes poor circulation in the feet and what are the symptoms of this condition?

Mr. J. J. N. Wis. Dear Mr. J. J. N.: I rarely describe symptoms of any disease because they tend to confuse readers rather than enlighten them. As I have frequently pointed out, symptoms of one disorder may resemble others and therefore cause unnecessary concern.

In the case of poor circulation, however, few other conditions will cause coldness of the toes and the tips of the fingers, pain and spasm of the muscles of the legs and a sensation of "pins and needles."

The cause of poor circulation in the elderly is almost always a narrowing of the blood vessels.

In younger people, one of the great offenders is tobacco. This causes a spasm or constriction of the blood vessels that carry blood to the feet and the hands. The symptoms change remarkably when tobacco is given up completely.

When any of the symptoms I suggested are present for any length of time a complete general physical examination may reveal the exact cause of the circulatory disturbances.

How serious are nose bleeds and headaches in a small child?

Mrs. B. D. W. Jr., Tex. Dear Mrs. B. D. W.: Although the chances are great that this is not a serious problem, it does deserve investigation.

Young children rarely have severe or chronic sinus headaches.

Eye strain, however, is frequently a cause of headaches. This and other causes of headaches can readily be ruled out so that there is no guess work in establishing the correct diagnosis.

Nose bleeds in children are almost always caused by "nose picking." Dry crusts, when picked off, irritate the lining of the nose and cause it to bleed. Lubrication with oil or vaseline and the use of steam inhalations are beneficial.

Before any home remedy is used, however, a general physical examination is essential. Your child deserves it for the sake of his health and you deserve it so as to be relieved of your anxiety.

Is your neighbor's medicine "better" for you than the one prescribed by your own doctor?

Today is the 114th anniversary of the start of one of the most popular hobbies indulged in by man — stamp collecting. On this date in 1957 the first perforated postage stamp was issued.

We've noticed this about most stamp collectors — once they take to that hobby they certainly stick to it.

In London one of Scotland Yard's sleuths, complained he couldn't locate a police station's new telephone number. Some detective!

The Permissive Society

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The relation of people to questions of morals and public taste is a strange thing: just when you think the height of permissiveness has become a never-ending plateau from which there can be no descent there comes a huge, spontaneous revulsion.

This is what happened when the merry permissive Stuarts were displaced in England. It happened again when Queen Victoria took over from her uncles, "the nasty old men, debauched and selfish, pig-headed and ridiculous, with their perpetual burden of debts, confusions, and indiscretions," as Lytton Strachey once described them in a memorable flourish.

Now the change is obvious again. We have had what Henry Hart, the editor of Films in Review, the publication of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, has called the "hard-core pornography and mindless nihilism" which has "debauched the motion picture industry." Then came the great box-office success of "Love Story," a youth picture that mixed a mordant and distinctly unsaccharine humor with its return to Victorian sentiment. There was no pot, no perversion, no violence in "Love Story," and the public has taken to it as a thirsty camel takes to the clear waters of a Libyan oasis. Meanwhile "Patton" and "Tora Tora Tora," two good war films, have challenged the new conventionality that anyone wearing a military uniform is ipso facto reprehensible.

Almost coincidentally with the success of "Love Story" there has been the overthrow of Richard Zanuck in Twentieth Century-Fox. As president and supervisor of production, Richard Zanuck had presided over the creation of such cinematic lovelies as "Myra Breckinridge" and "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls." The story out of Hollywood is that the bank representatives on the Twentieth Century-Fox board might have accepted a continuing run of films which editor Hart lists as hard-core pornography if they had had a crashing box office success. But the moviegoing public, hungering for a "Love Story," wasn't taking to Myra Breckinridge's peculiar didoes. And the previews of "Little Murders," a film in which neurotic New Yorkers shoot at one another from windows, promised nothing by way of a change.

So the Richard Zanuck era has ended. Bowing to the bankers, young Zanuck's father, the famed Darryl F., did not use his stock representation and voting rights to save the day for his son. "Now generation" films threaten to go to a discount as the young cop outers of 1969-70 begin to worry about the ability of a depressed economic system to take care of them through remittances to their parents. We have a soberer America in 1971, and the financiers of Hollywood have caught the hint.

Vice President Spiro Agnew, the Administration drum-beater for the anti-nihilists, did not have too much voting booth success in relating his crusade to politics last November. His failure was only nominal; actually, he forced the opposition to accept his premises in order to survive his blasts. Anyway, the battle for an affirmative decency won't be won on the political front; it will be won in society by changing the point of view of editors, publishers, entertainers, and educators.

In forming his Common Cause to create a new America through changing such things as the filibuster rule in the U.S. Senate, John Gardner is wasting his time; when two Southern governors, James Carter of Georgia and John West of South Carolina, both promise "color blind" regimes, the Senatorial filibuster no longer menaces human rights. The Committee to Unite America, a new group recently formed by Natalie Wales Hamilton of "Bundles for Britain" fame, intends to rally the forces for an "affirmative" America by appealing directly to individuals and their social institutions. It is this column's bet that Lady Hamilton's committee will burgeon in influence as John Gardner's shrinks.

Dear Editor:

Several months ago, it was learned that some of the local business places were collecting empty cigarette packs which were to be used to benefit James "Peanuts" Barker. "Peanuts," an 11-year old cancer victim died Thanksgiving Eve. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barker of 215 W. Union St.

Alerting all known users of the "20-Class A" Group, we were able with the special help of Sandra Schoonover, Western Electric Employee, Mr. Arnold Fannin and Mrs. Oscar Allen plus numerous others to gather many empties in a short period. Then came the question of redemption. After all possible personal leads had been exhausted, correspondence and personal contacts were made with all tobacco companies; Ohio Department of Taxation; Sales and Excise Tax; Tobacco Tax; and to Mr. Gene Tosca, Executive Secretary of the Ohio Association of Tobacco Distributors. Information received 2 from the above-mentioned indicates never have they offered anything for the return of empty cigarette packs. Attempts to interest the aluminum companies in the aluminum portion of the packs weren't successful.

Contacts were made with the Columbus Hospitals and it was learned from Mrs. Johann Brown of the Benjamin Franklin Hospital that one of the local VFW Clubs were able to benefit from the empties.

Willis MacDonald, Post Commander of V.F.W. Post 2505, Route 1, Lockbourne, confirmed new VFW posts are able through a private supply company to redeem empty packs for hospital beds and wheel chairs.

Mrs. Rolf Wolford, American Red Cross offered the use of the enclosed porch of the Red Cross Building solely as a central temporary storage for those who wished to participate in "Operation Empty." Mr. James E. Roese of the Circleville Jaycees will deliver collected empties to the Lockbourne Post.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you fool around with life long enough, some surprising things can happen to you. For example you can become 60 years old.

This happened to me promptly at noon Sunday while I was lying back pondering whether man's long journey from colic to arthritis is necessary or even worthwhile.

Frankly, I was surprised that my 60th birthday, which I have long anticipated with more misgivings than gratitude, made such a small stir.

I took a three-mile hike and fed nuts to four squirrels.

I went to visit a sick friend. When I complained about being 60 years old, she said:

"H-m-m-m, that's odd. For a week I've had a premonition of death, but all the time I thought it was mine."

Returning home I was surprised by a fine chicken dinner cooked by my daughter Tracy Ann, 17, and her friend down the hall, Susan Stumph, also 17. Then another surprise: the girls had baked a huge three-color angel food birthday cake, and Susan's father popped with a couple of bottles of champagne.

So I called my 83-year-old mother, who lives in Kansas City.

"Congratulations, son," she said. "It's snowing here now just as it did 60 years ago when you were born. My, what a mess!"

Egyptian Offers Films

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's curious. At a time when most suppliers to the film industry are singing the depression blues, here's one who can scarcely keep up with his business.

The entrepreneur is alert, compact, Egyptian-born Fouad Said, pronounced Foo-ahd Sah-ed. He supplies what films need most nowadays: cost-cutting mobility.

Seven years ago the new graduate from the University of Southern California film school despaired of the ancient methods of the industry. He had been working as a cameraman, and he saw close-up the waste of the Hollywood factories.

The result of his thinking: Cinemobile, a new technique of including everything needed for a film location in a single truck or truckbus.

Said created a mobile location studio. Gone were tons of heavy gear and the caravans of trucks to haul it. Said redesigned the needed equipment—cameras, camera track, lights, reflectors, microphone boom, sound recording, generators, etc.—to be lightweight and compact.

Nobody had ever thought of it before. Cinemobile revolutionized location shooting, resulting in a special award for Said at last year's Academy awards show. Business is brisk.

"We are operating at 100 per cent capacity," reported Said. "We have 18 rigs, and 16 are working—the other two are being overhauled. And we're building others as fast as we can."

The success of Cinemobile prompted other film suppliers and studios to offer their own systems for all-inclusive location trucks. Said pooh-poohs the competition.

"They cannot offer what we do," he said. "The studios are stuck with their old equipment, which doesn't fit this new system. Our trucks have between 3,000 and 3,600 pieces of equipment, and all must work. The camera can't stop because a single item is not functioning. We'll stay up all night, if necessary to make sure everything is in working order."

Recently Jack Lemmon talked of Said's uncommon services. Directing "Kotch" in Palm Springs with a Cinemobile rig, Lemmon was having trouble with a pickup truck being used in a scene. Without doffing his jacket, Said slid under the truck, repaired it, and the shooting continued.

How much can Cinemobile save on production costs?

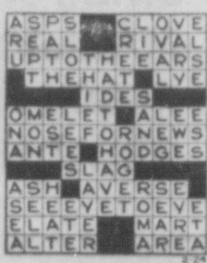

"About a half-hour per move," says Said. "We can save a half-hour in setting up in the morning and a half-hour in closing up at night. The nighttime is important, because the crews are often on overtime."

Savings of a half-hour here, a half-hour there can mean many thousands of dollars off a budget. This is especially important in movies that entail many brief locations and in television series, where production money is limited. Cinemobile rigs rent from $300 to $1,800 per day.

Essex Sees Need For School Image

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Ohio School Supt. Martin W. Essex said Tuesday educators must restore public confidence in schools by projecting a more realistic view of education's mission and potential.

Speaking at the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators, Essex said confidence in schools has ebbed because the public has been led to expect unrealistic achievements from it.

Senate Demos Urge 1972 Vietnam Pullout Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic policymakers have urged President Nixon to set a timetable immediately for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Indochina before the end of 1972.

With that resolution being presented today to a caucus of the 55 Senate Democrats, a Republican senator proposed Congress immediately set the end of this year as a deadline for complete withdrawal.

"Now it is time to act," said Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland. "Now it is time for Congress finally to marshal its resolve and enact the legislation necessary to accelerate our withdrawal from the tragic conflict in Southeast Asia."

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee stopped short of seeking immediate action on legislation to compel American withdrawal. But Sen. Mike Mansfield, the party leader, said that action could come later if President Nixon does not act to end U.S. involvement in Indochina and withdraw all American forces "in a time certain."

The resolution approved by the 14-member party policy committee calls also for release of all prisoners.

Beyond the end of 1972, the Democrats suggested no specific withdrawal deadline. Mansfield said the measure provides the administration flexibility on that point.

"We're hoping he'll pick a time, and if he does, he'll have our support," Mansfield said. "We don't intend that it be publicized."

The Democrats set their general time guideline by declaring total withdrawal an objective the Senate majority should work to achieve during the current 92nd Congress. Its two-year tenure began a month ago.

The resolution declares it the sense of the policy committee—not binding on any senator—that during the current Congress Democrats should work "to end the involvement in Indochina and to bring about the withdrawal of all U.S. forces and the release of all prisoners in a time certain."

Mansfield said Democrats might agree later to press for a

2nd Report On Unrest Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— A second interim report is due "in about a month" from the Special Joint Legislative Committee on Campus Unrest.

The committee, created by the General Assembly to look into last May's campus disorders, agreed Tuesday to write a second supplemental report covering its second round of campus visits. Those visits, concluded earlier this month, were made to assess changes in campus climate.

The first interim report, issued last fall, was critical of college administrators for failing to exercise authority.

Committee Chairman Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-91 Canton, said a draft of the report ought to be ready in about a month.

A final report would follow, perhaps toward the end of the session.

Committee members also suggested that the committee, now designated as special, be made a permanent one so that investigations into larger problems of overcrowding and quality instruction might be undertaken.

Sen. Howard Cook, R-1 Toledo, described the work of the committee as important because of "the communicative factor."

"We learned a lot more from these hearings about education than we ever have before," he said.

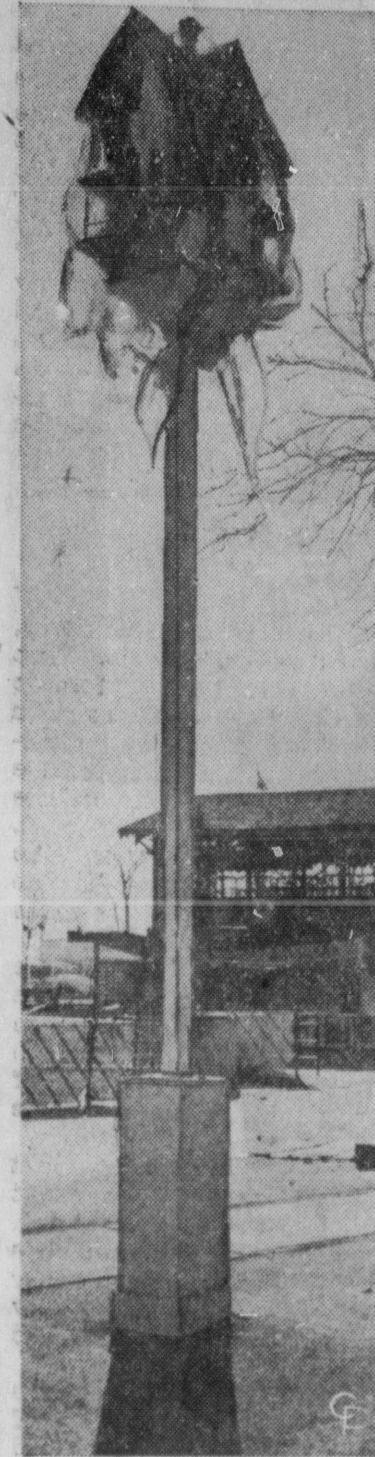

"We ought to continue this kind of thing," Cook said, "not as a watchdog, but to show that we are interested in education."

Fair Skies Cover Much Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair and generally pleasant weather spread over a large part of the nation's midsection today while snow lingered in New England and rain washed the Pacific Northwest.

The Northeastern snow was a remnant of the wide-ranging storm that hit the Plains and Midwest during the weekend.

Heavy snow warnings remained in effect over Maine. Eight inches piled onto much of the state through Tuesday. Travel warnings were out in northeastern New York, Vermont and New Hampshire due to locally heavy snow.

Milder weather fanned into the Great Plains and was expected to speed thawing of deep snowdrifts in sections of the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

Rain and snow showers dampened scattered areas in Arizona and New Mexico, but aside from the rain in the Northwest most other sections of the Far West were fair and pleasant.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 6 at Huron S.D., to 71 at Key West, Fla.

Nurses Assn. Hears Report On Drug Use

Pickaway County Registered Nurses' Assn. met recently in home of Mrs. L. E. Priest. R. Keller, a registered pharmacist and sales representative with Eli Lilly Co., spoke on the use and abuse of drugs. Mr. Keller feels young people are using drugs today because of the parental use of such drugs as diet pills, tranquilizers, and sleeping pills. He clarified the meaning of drug addiction, drug habituation and drug dependency. The answer to our drug problem must be education which must be started at home according to Mr. Keller. Because of the death of a drug salesman in the Chicago area many precautions must be observed. He also stated that the biggest dollar and cent item is tranquilizer.

During the business meeting, Mrs. David Smith and Mrs. Jerrel Anderson asked for volunteers for Red Cross bloodmobile to be held March 5.

Clear Officer In Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP) — A three-man review board and City Manager Richard Krabach have cleared a white policeman of any wrongdoing in the shooting death of a black burglary suspect.

The board, composed of Safety Director Henry Sandman, City Solicitor William McClain, and city managerial assistant R. J. Campbell, announced its decision Tuesday. Krabach concurred.

William Scurry, 18, of Cincinnati was fatally wounded Jan. 21 at the Keene Insulating Co. here after he ignored three warnings and knocked down Patrolman John Huber, police said. Huber, who shot the youth, said he and other officers had responded to a burglar alarm and he scuffled with Scurry.

"After the individual review, the committee met and deliberated and unanimously concluded that the actions of the police officer that resulted in the regrettable death of William Saunders Scurry were consistent with the laws of Ohio and the regulations of the Cincinnati Police Division, the board said in its report.

Different community organizations and citizens had called for Huber's dismissal.

Pennsylvania Crash Kills 4

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — Four persons were killed early today on the Pennsylvania Turnpike when their trailer truck struck a parked trailer truck, state police said.

The identity of the victims was not immediately known. Police said the driver of the east bound station wagon apparently fell asleep, veered off the highway and rammed into the back of the truck.

A fifth person in the car was injured and taken to the Somerset Community Hospital.

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day of the "Senate Establishment," when that little clique of key members, all of them senior and most of them Southerners, dominated the body is gone at last, if not forever.

Today, the establishment is more a myth than a reality, says Sen. John Sherman Cooper, voicing an opinion widely shared by his colleagues in interviews.

"The establishment is one of those mystical somethings people talk about and write about," said Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a man generally regarded as part of the inner circle. "If you probe into it, you find yourself in a web of confusion."

Members of the Senate, with the notable exception of North Carolina's Sam Ervin, agree that whatever the establishment is, it isn't what it used to be.

"When I first came here," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., "the inner club was Lyndon Johnson, Lyndon Johnson, Lyndon Johnson, period. Those not in with Lyndon (then Senate majority leader) were not in. Now it is a different ball game."

Republican Mark Hatfield of Oregon agreed that the establishment was far more in evidence a few years ago. "If the so-called establishment is synonymous with power, I think one would have to look to specific subjects or issues and identify the people who are influential in these fields," he said. "I don't think one person or one group would exercise the same power over all issues or questions."

Democrat Ervin disagreed. "As an establishment, it does nothing," he said. "But senators who are members of the establishment really control the Senate."

Franchise Chain Asks Permission To Reorganize

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Arby's Inc., of Youngstown, listing debts of $1.4 million, has asked U.S. Bankruptcy Court here for permission to reorganize to avoid bankruptcy.

The petition by the food service chain, which has 100 restaurants nationally featuring roast beef sandwiches, will be under consideration by U.S. Bankruptcy Referee Joseph T. Molitoris in Youngstown.

An attorney for the company said Molitoris would be asked to allow the company to operate under its current management.

The company listed assets of $8.3 million and liabilities of $9.8 million as of Oct. 31. Forrest B. Raffel, who started the chain with his brother in 1964, said the financial statement would pertain only to the parent company and about 40 franchise outlets that are wholly owned.

Trial For Murder Opens In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The prosecution and the defense prepared to make opening statements today in the first-degree murder trial of James Ward, 22, of near Cincinnati.

Ward is charged in the fatal beating last Oct. 8 of Harry Flaig Sr., 82, of nearby Fairfield. Flaig, who had been bound and gagged, died from suffocation.

Those members are, by general agreement, Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, and the chairmen of the major committees. The latter are all Democrats and, since the chairmanships are handed out on the basis of seniority, most of them are Southerners.

"I would say senators who understand and appreciate the unique function of the Senate in our scheme of government constitute the Senate establishment," said Ervin.

"They are men who love the Senate, who wish to preserve the Senate as a unique legislative body and resist efforts to convert it into a different kind of legislative body."

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, a Republican freshman from Pennsylvania, sees the Senate situation changing.

"If you look at some of the key votes of last year—the Haynsworth and Crswell Supreme Court nominations, you'll find that the outer club became the inner club," he said. "The inner club was on the losing side. The rank and file of the Senate revolted. On the Cooper-Church amendment (restricting U.S. military actions in Cambodia), the inner club was again on the losing side."

"As new and younger members come in, a new pragmatic coalition has emerged which has become a majority on some issues."

"I'm not quite sure what 'the establishment' means," said Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., a man who has all the credentials for membership in the inner circle.

"In the old days when Dick Russell was the dominant character and the strong man of the Senate, those he liked were members of the establishment. Now I guess senators who like to work with Mansfield and Scott are members."

"I don't think there is any establishment that meets in the back room to make plans. The Senate is pretty open in its moves."

Proxmire thinks the inner club has been greatly exaggerated, especially since Johnson gave way to Majority Leader Mansfield.

As a young senator, Proxmire publicly complained of Johnson's ways in a Senate speech on Washington's Birthday in 1959.

"Some wag commented later that there were two farewell speeches heard in the Senate that day, Washington's and Proxmire's," the senator recalled.

Mansfield, said Proxmire, makes no attempt to control Senate Democrats as Johnson did. "The result is you have a diverse degree of power. It is wrong to say there are a few senators who constantly control the authority and power movement in the Senate."

While sticking to his assessment that the establishment is mostly myth, Kentucky's Cooper conceded that a small group wields considerable influence.

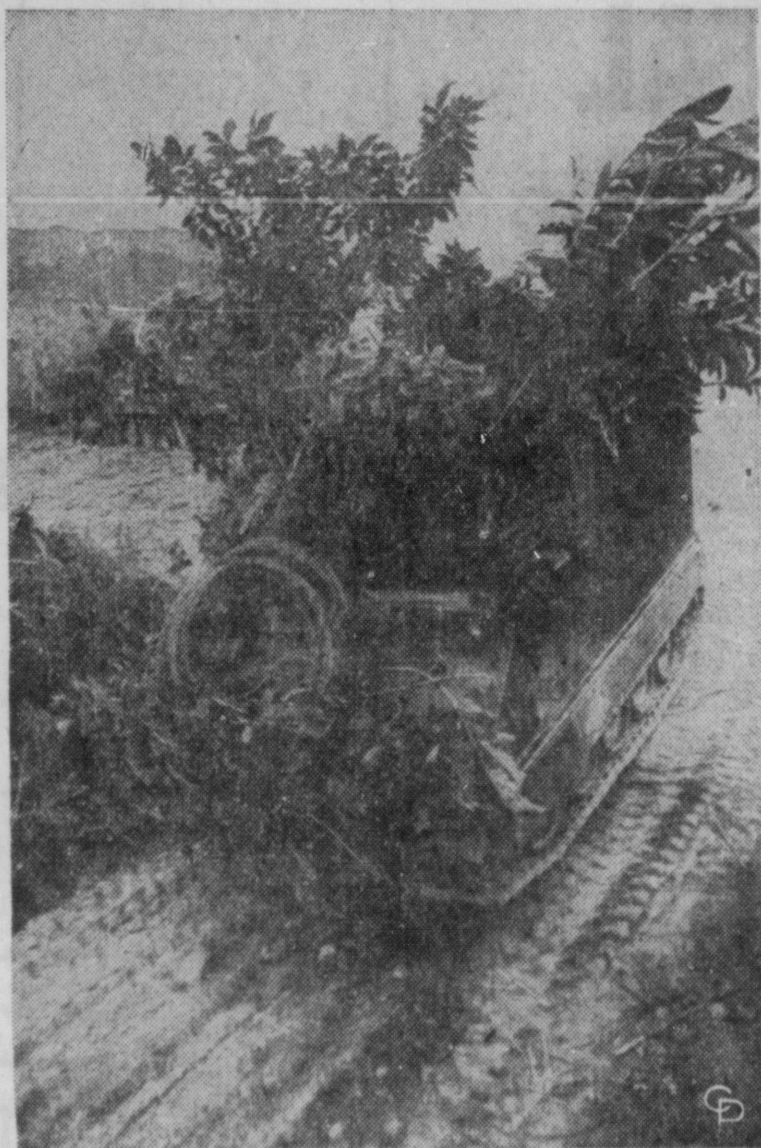

"I think that is correct as the leadership and chairmen of committees think alike about things and can consult and have great power," he said. "Some are skilled parliamentarians and have power because they are respected and believed to have good judgment."

Some men, said Cooper, prefer to work independently of all groups, fearing that to do otherwise would limit their freedom on individual issues. Democrat George McGovern of South Dakota counts himself in that group, as does the dean of Senate Republicans, George Aiken of Vermont.

"Most men who stay in the Senate a long time merit membership in the establishment," said Sen. Ervin, but seniority alone is not enough.

Quoting from Sen. John Stennis' eulogy of Russell last month, Ervin said the Senate itself is more important than any of its individual members.

"The best test of whether a member belongs to the establishment," he said, "is whether he has this feeling for the Senate."

Municipal Tax Sharing Threat To Big Cities?

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Municipal tax sharing is a comfortable arrangement for suburbs, but poses a serious threat to big city pocketbooks.

That was the substance of testimony given Tuesday evening before the House Local Government and Urban Affairs Committee studying two bills on tax reciprocity between municipalities.

Both bills, introduced in the House, would return 25 per cent of income taxes collected by one municipality to the municipality where the taxpayer lives.

Representing the suburbs, Mayor John Munkacsy of Berea, chief of the Cuyahoga County Association of Mayors and City Managers, told the 19-man committee that tax reciprocity has been "our savior."

Munkacsy said that so-called bedroom communities, suburbs, generally do not have sufficient property tax basis to provide needed services.

"If reciprocity with the City of Cleveland is lost," Munkacsy said, "it is going to mean a awful lot of scrambling around for funds."

Lakewood Assistant Tax Commissioner Keith Savidge told the committee his city would lose $800,000, one-sixth of the general fund, if its tax deal with Cleveland ends.

Berea, Lakewood and a number of other satellite communities have a reciprocal arrangement with Cleveland, but Cleveland is challenging its legality.

Cleveland has served notice on the suburbs that it intends to end tax reciprocity by January 1972, the time the agreement expires.

Only a court battle has kept the city from cancelling the tax sharing sooner.

Philip Dearborn, finance director for Cleveland, said the administration of mandated tax-sharing between communities would be costly.

Dearborn estimated that a centralized collection and allocation system, with appeals and authority provisions, would cost $10 million annually.

Compulsory tax sharing, he added, often prompts suburbs to raise income taxes without regard for need to take advantage of the reciprocity arrangement.

Abandonment of tax sharing, Dearborn said, would net financially-troubled Cleveland $5 million more each year.

Rep. Ross Heintzelman, R-89 Canton, backed the big city view of tax sharing.

"City problems are contagious," he said. "If we can't solve them, then suburban communities will have to. But solving them takes money. Problems of crime and pollution are expensive city problems. We just cannot let any money get away."

He estimated Canton could lose $2 million a year under an obligatory tax sharing arrangement.

Without that money, said Canton's mayor, "We will not be able to meet new sewer commitments required of us by pollution control authorities."

Representatives of Cincinnati and Columbus also spoke in opposition to the two bills.

The tax-sharing bills will receive another hearing next week.

The committee passed and sent to the floor for a vote an amended bill authorizing metropolitan housing authorities to "cooperatively finance" housing projects.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Charles Fry, R-9 Springfield, would permit one metro housing authority to sell bonds for a number of authorities to take advantage of lower interest rates and the greater attractiveness of large bond sales.

New Commercial Lettuce Developed
ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Plant scientists at the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University have developed a new strain of lettuce which matures quickly.

The new strain has been named "Ithaca" lettuce and the scientists say it is ready for commercial production.

Cincinnati Tested At Lima Hospital
CINCINNATI (AP) — A 24-year-old Cincinnati man, charged in the strangulation of his wife last Dec. 11, has been sent to Lima State Hospital for a psychiatric examination.

Judge Gilbert Bettman of the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court ordered the examination Tuesday for Gary Whitaker. Whitaker is charged with first-degree murder in the death of his wife, Janice, 23.

Gilligan Tells Senate Panel Jobs Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio told a Senate subcommittee today he favors federal legislation to provide public service jobs in times of continued unemployment.

Gilligan, citing his state's jobless statistics, said at present in Ohio "and indeed throughout the nation" there is a severe shortage of manpower in health care.

Gilligan, who is here for the National Governors' Conference, testified for the proposed Emergency Employment Act of 1971.

"We need not fear that this program will become a work program," he told the subcommittee on Employment, Manpower and Poverty. "Every member of the public would benefit from the jobs made available by the bill."

In the inner-city areas of Cleveland and Toledo, he said, unemployment rates were 15 per cent or higher last year.

Inner-city areas of Columbus, Cincinnati and Youngstown all had unemployment rates of more than 10 per cent, he said.

"Some of our more rural counties, particularly in Ohio Appalachia, have unemployment rates more than double that of the state as a whole," he stated.

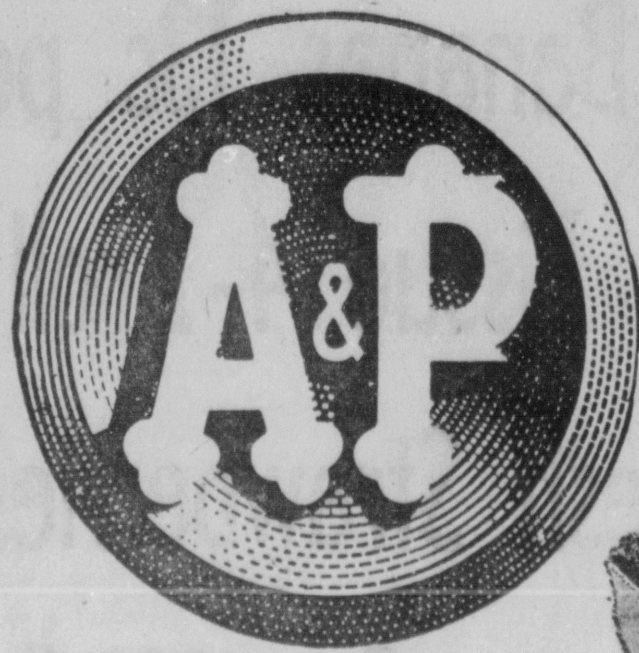

Last December, Ohio's average monthly unemployment rate was 4.7, he testified.

The bill provides for the appropriation of money to provide public service jobs only when the national unemployment rate surpasses 4.5 per cent for three consecutive months.

Introductory Tea Is Scheduled

The public is invited as the congregation would like the minister to become acquainted with people of this community. Deacon James Lewis extends a special invitation to all ministers.

Views On TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "CBS Reports" spent 10 months rounding up material on the far-flung public relations activities of the Department of Defense. The result, broadcast Tuesday night was "The Selling of the Pentagon," a hard-hitting description of the means used to sell the military establishment to the American public.

It pictured the largest agency in government as spending millions—its estimates ranged from $30 million to $190 million—on propaganda films, free radio and television tapes, blizzards of press releases, demonstrations, displays, lectures and guided tours of military installations for civilian VIPs.

The tone of Roger Mudd's narration was accusatory. A film showed Green Berets demonstrating for a group of school children their fighting tactics, followed by scenes of the children trying to imitate the stabbing and stomping.

A former information officer in Vietnam described how he "cast" certain pilots and made only these men available when a CBS camera team sought to make a feature. A former Army cameraman said a report on Vietnamese troops in action was staged for him.

Mudd's narration emphasized the significance of clips from department-made films on the menace of communism and excerpts from speeches by Pentagon spokesmen.

He charged that "the public and the press" has been "beguiled by the activity" which he called "the creation of a run-away bureaucracy."

It was sharply edited from a viewpoint and probably will make some waves in Washington.

"The Fourth Bill Cosby Special," seen earlier on NBC, was a giddy departure from Cosby's whimsy in his other three comedy hours.

It was a sort of anthology of comedy ideas that appealed to the comedian. Some worked very well. A funny segment had Burgess Meredith in a wicked spoof of David Frost's extravagant interviewing style—full of such words as fantastic, fabulous and fascinating—during a talk with a subject who was changing from human into a wolfman. In another, Cosby, as president of the United States, solved the economic crisis by banishing the letter "s" from the alphabet and the language.

On a much less inspired level was a too-little, too-late satire on "Batman."

Even with so-so material, Cosby is sly and amusing, and the show was fun to watch.

Report $4,000 Per Month 'Manipulated' In Viet PXs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Up to $4,000 monthly provided by Carling's Breweries to promote Black Label beer in GI clubs in Vietnam was manipulated on the currency blackmarket and used for kickbacks and bribes to club managers, the Senate has been told.

Connecticut Democrat Abraham Ribicoff's permanent investigations subcommittee was told the only time Carling's money went for genuine promotion was during a visit to Vietnam by a Carling's official, Tommy Thompson.

Jack Bybee, a former general manager of Vietnam business interests of William J. Crum, testified Monday that, after he complained about use of the promotional money, he was assigned to another job.

The subcommittee is investigating alleged corruption in servicemen's clubs, post exchanges and other activities supported by GIs' spending.

During Thompson's visit, Bybee testified, Crum gave him a suitcase full of military payment certificates and ordered him to give the money to Carling's salesmen to "visibly promote Carling's."

Actually, Bybee said, there was no documentation of how the promotional funds were used.

Instead, he said, "We juggled the figures each month to show that $4,000 had been spent. We sent these false documents to Hong Kong for transmittal to Carling's headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio."

Bybee said the Carling's account was handled in a manner typical of all products promoted by Crum firms.

Previous subcommittee testimony has described Crum as the most successful businessman dealing with GI activities in Vietnam.

Always, Bybee said, kickbacks were Crum's key to doing business with military facilities.

Testifying Crum was added in his operations by Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole, Bybee said the general pulled strings to help

Crum unload a failing business interest, a giftshop at the 90th Long Binh.

The Army says Gen. Cole was demoted, stripped of a Distinguished Service Medal and retired in 1969 as commander of the European PX system.

Charge Daytonian In Other's Death

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Thirty-six-year-old Robert Dewberry of Dayton has been charged with first-degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting Saturday night of Eugene Stanley.

Stanley, 47, of Dayton, died Monday from a wound suffered in the incident outside a tavern here.

Court Supports Loyalty Oaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5-4 Tuesday law graduates may be required to show they are loyal to the government before they may be licensed to practice law.

However, the court, said bar applicants cannot be required to list the organizations, including allegedly subversive ones, to which they may belong.

The decisions involve admissions practices in New York, Arizona and Ohio that were challenged by young law school graduates who claimed the procedures had a "chilling effect" upon their rights of free speech and free association.

Waste Permits May Be Illegal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state's 20-year-old system of granting permits for discharge of wastes into Ohio's waters may be illegal, as assistant attorney general said Tuesday.

C. Ray Marvin, assistant attorney general assigned to the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, told startled board members the attorney general's office is studying all aspects of the board's permit system.

Marvin disclosed the investigation just prior to a special board meeting to consider renewal of permits to 59 municipalities and 51 industries in Ohio.

Westfall Loses Winner, Kempton School Marm 'Lights Out' Are Spotlighted Piketon Game Drama Picked

February 5, 9:10 p.m., third quarter:

Westfall trails by two points to Piketon in a league game, but has possession of the ball and a chance to tie the game. Randy Alkire dribbles down the floor, and as he prepares to shoot — two flashes, then total darkness.

As excitement and bewilderment filled the crowd, flashlights and candles appeared to evade the total blackout in an atmosphere of freaky holiday. Referees took it into their power to maintain order as the cause of the fiasco was sought. The crowd — filled with emotions of panic, excitement, disgust, and bewilderment — began to mill around as if finding comfort from the voices of others.

On-the-spot interviews resulted in the following comments from some of the cheerleaders. Vicki Dennis exclaimed, "I just don't know what to say. I'm in the dark about everything!" Brenda Winner felt it was "something great to remember about my last home game." All Christy Hawker could exclaim was "Golly!"

A talk with Randy Alkire brought out his emotion of bewilderment. He said, "I really felt funny when everything went totally black." He stated he was dribbling down the floor, then, all of a sudden — no thing!

Mrs. Pat Ogle, official scorekeeper, exclaimed, "What a time to happen. Just two points apart."

At last, a deputy sheriff reported that the black-out was due to a wreck which had knocked out an electric pole. Many people began to leave by 9:30, and at 10 p.m. the game was officially postponed until the following Tuesday. A heavy snow caused a second cancellation to February 16.

On Tuesday 16, the game was started at the beginning of the second half, but even after a final second effort, ended in a loss for Westfall at 68-67.

However, Friday, February 5, will remain to be an event for the senior basketball players and cheerleaders to remember their last home game by.

This week Brenda Winner and Larry Kempton have been chosen to represent Westfall as the Seniors of the Week.

Brenda Sue Winner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Winner of Route 2, Williamsport. She is presently enrolled in the business course of study.

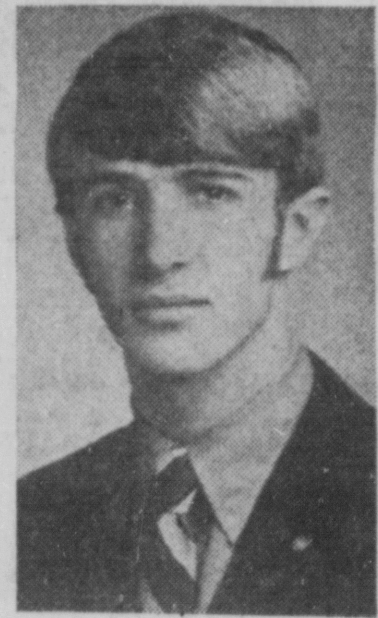

BRENDA WINNER

At Westfall, Brenda has been active in the Student Council for four years and has been a cheerleader, for four years, serving as co-captain of the Varsity squad this year.

She has also been a student office secretary for three years and was tapped into the National Honor Society in the spring of 1970. In past years, Brenda has served as vice president of the Latin Club and a member of the "Echo" staff.

In 1969, Brenda represented Westfall well as the junior representative to the Miss Pumpkin Show Contest. At the 1970 football homecoming, she was selected as queen.

After graduation, Brenda plans to work and sometime get married.

LARRY KEMPTON

Larry Kempton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Kempton of Route 2, Williamsport, was born 18 years ago in Tucson, Ariz. He is presently enrolled in the college preparatory course of study.

Larry plays first-string Varsity basketball for the Westfall squad. His other school activities include Drama Club and assistant sports editor for the "Echo." In past years he has served as president of the Latin Club and a member of the Student Council. In outside activities, he is active in 4-H, Junior Leaders and UMYF.

Through his leadership and citizenship, Larry has received many awards. He has been a delegate to Buckeye Boys' State, the 4-H Citizenship Short Course in Washington, D.C., and the Ohio 4-H Club Congress. He is the 1970-71 County Fair King and also received the 4-H Dairy Achievement Award.

Following graduation, Larry plans to attend Ohio State University and major in agricultural economics.

The Rocket Club hopes to schedule demonstrations and meets, and provide a launch area with the necessary equipment.

The second of the three one-act plays now under production by the Drama Club is "The Perils of Priscilla," a melodrama whose plot revolves around the coming of the new school marm.

Priscilla, portrayed by Cheryl Miller, replaced old Miss Tyler (Judy Schein), who is missing. Smedley Smidgin, the evil school board president, portrayed by Bob Schobert, has kidnapped the old Miss Tyler because she would not give him one-third of her pay as the other teachers had done in the past.

When Miss Tyler escapes and is ready to proclaim Smedley's misdeeds to the world, Smedley is forced to do away with her.

Miss Priscilla begins her work at the school to find herself at the mercy of Smedley who has kidnapped her poor crippled niece, Becky, played by Cindy Beatty. Harlowe Starbuck (Larry Kempton) comes to save the day, but is almost killed by Smidgin until little Jenny, portrayed by Sally Minor, shoots him. Freckles (Ted Rogers) also adds to the plot as Miss Priscilla's pet, who is strictly boyish in nature.

In all, the play turns into one of the funniest melodramas ever seen that will surely be enjoyed by everyone.

'Match Maker' Selected For Senior Play

The Senior Class met Feb. 16, to make a final selection for this year's class play.

The list had been shortened to four plays earlier by members of the second period Senior English class. Those plays that were in the final selection were: "1984," "Up The Down Staircase," "If a Man Answers," and "The Match Maker."

"The Match Maker" was chosen to be produced by the Class of 71. It is based on the book of the same name and has just been released for publication in play form. The popular Broadway musical, "Hello Dolly," comes from this book, although the play is not in a musical form. "The Match Maker" will be directed by Miss Rachel Ford, head advisor for the Westfall Drama Club. Casting will begin in the first week of March for production in May.

Gym Classes Demonstrate Athletic Skills

One of the many highlights of the Westfall Open House was the program presented by Mr. Bill Vance, boys' physical education teacher and Mrs. Pat Ogle, girls' physical education teacher.

The program of Mr. Vance consisted of the Championship Tournament Game of the boys' phys. ed. teams. The game ended with a score of 23 to 17, with Kempton's Team the victor. The winning team consisted of Larry Kempton — captain, Gary Angles, Terry Hamilton, Steve Rigsby, Mark Stubbs and Chuck Christopher.

Runners-up were Scot Riddle — captain, Irving Crabtree, Ray Henson, Randy Long, Rick McKenzie and Chuck Strous. Much praise should be given to these fine ball teams for their hard efforts.

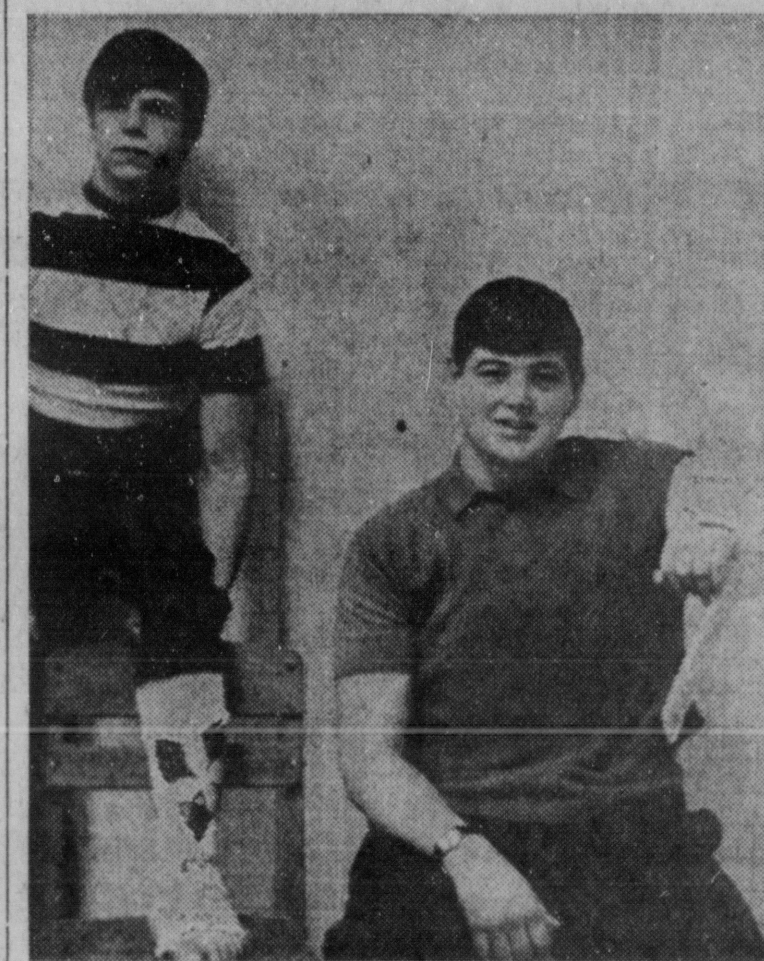

The program Mrs. Ogle presented consisted of many different gymnastic routines. This added a form of grace to the evening.

Girls participating were Melanie Bliss, Jane Covault, Linda Conrad, Ann Straley, Bev McDill, Elizabeth Francis, Nancy Morgan, Rita Ingman, Connie Hooks, Nancy Dean, Jean Jude, Ellie Linton, Leslie Fyffe, Patty Stebelton, LuAnn Gifford, Kim Long, Cheryl Miller, Kay Hooks, Jeri Henson, Judy Wright, Kim Hughes, Wendy Neff, Chris Hanson, Rae Fenstermaker and Roxanne Hulse.

These girls really put out a lot of effort for this evening in preparing their gymnastic routines.

Severe malnutrition of either the mother or her baby while in early stages of development has been found to be the cause of some mental retardation, according to the National Society for Medical Research.

Plaster Limbs Are Adopted As Current Fashion Trend

SOLID SUPPORTS — Although a bit unwieldy at times, plaster extremities such as Terry Neff, left and Greg Rickabaugh display are excellent excuses to get out of work. However, the five Westfallers most recently sporting the status symbols claim they do not hinder their social lives.

Plaster seems to be the current fashion trend at Westfall. Knights in this dull white armor can be seen limping around the halls almost anytime.

During the start of this second semester, there were five of these knights — Greg Rickabaugh, Wally Ward, Terry Neff, Mark Johnson and Leslie Williams.

Wally, a senior, broke his right thumb in the football game with Piketon. It was not until a week after football season was over it was discovered that his thumb was broken. Wally finally got his cast removed on Feb. 2. He did not feel that the cast gave him any special advantages other than getting out of physical education.

Leslie Williams, a junior, suffered from a broken fifth metatarsal in her left foot. Her freedom came Feb. 15. Her impediment was caused by a fall while hanging a shower curtain at home. Leslie described her cast as being very heavy and hard to walk in. She would not want it to happen again; however, she did enjoy the sympathy it got her, and enjoyed getting out of work at home. She also liked her autographs that her cast had collected.

Terry Neff, a senior, suffered a break like Leslie's while playing basketball in a physical education class. Terry has been wearing his cast for five weeks and has to wear it five more before it will be removed.

Terry says it hurts, and it is hard to walk and to take a bath. However, he does not let it hinder his social life. He likes Mary's autographs the best. The only advantage that he feels there is, is that he gets out of doing work.

Greg Rickabaugh, a senior, accidentally shot himself in the left arm two years ago. The bone was broken and mashed. Greg broke it this year playing football. His cast covers from his waist over his left shoulder and continues down his left arm. His left arm is held away from his body by a plaster covered wooden rod. The cast should be removed by Feb. 26.

Greg says he detests the cast and finds it very hard to sleep in. The only thing he feels is significant about his cast is the famous autographs that make his cast a shrine to football. They include Rex Kerns, Bo Scott, Bruce Jankowski, Rufus Mayes and Ernie Keller.

Mark Johnson, a senior, cracked his left ankle while playing basketball in physical education. He expresses extreme dislike for the plaster form and does not like anything about it except that it gets him out of doing a little work. He says his cast hinders him from running but has not affected his social life at all. Mark went to have his cast checked on Feb. 17, but the results of this visit have not been disclosed.

At the rate the senior class is going now, they may all be on crutches and in wheel chairs to accept their diplomas!

Seniors Earn Money For Capital Trip

The S.W.D.C. (Seniors to Washington, D. C.) have again been planning activities to earn money for their trip to D. C. this June.

For the past two Saturdays, students have held a paper drive to help meet their goal. On Feb. 24, the seniors will sponsor a bake sale during lunch period at school. In the future, they have planned a CoRec for March and are also considering an Aunt Jemima Pancake Supper.

It is the seniors' hope that the community will take an active interest in their projects so that they might have a meaningful encounter in Washington, D. C.

Student Council Dance Well-Received At WHS

February 20 was the date; the Westfall cafeteria was the setting; and the cast — "Dark Wood."

With this as their program, the Student Council and Annual Staff set out to have a really "groovin'" dance, and succeeded in their goal. The evening dance had a good turnout as it was a "first" for an "open" dance at Westfall, with WHS students responsible for the actions of their guests. "Dark Wood" performed a lot of "Chicago" and "Three Dog Night" thus making a hit with its audience.

Dress was casual, and everyone seemed to have a great time. We hope this dance will be the first of many sponsored by the various clubs at Westfall.

Middle Age 'Stretchout' Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the year 2,000, the scientist said, it should be technically possible to add 20 to 40 useful years to an individual's period of middle age.

Dr. Leon R. Kass of the National Academy of Sciences said conservative estimates from recent research indicate aging may be a process that can be manipulated, perhaps by such measures as diet and drugs.

Working from animal studies, Kass said, scientists have suggested a very small decrease in the temperature of a human body could slow the rate of aging. Body processes slow down at lower temperatures.

But it is just such dramatic possibilities in current biomedical research that raise profound questions for society, said Kass, executive director of the National Academy's Committee on Life Sciences and Social Policy.

He spoke Monday to a seminar on science and public policy being held this week at the academy.

At first, Kass said, longevity probably will be obtained by an individual only at great expense.

"Who is likely to be able to buy it?" he asked. "Do conscience and prudence permit us to enlarge the gap between rich and poor, especially with respect to something as fundamental as life itself?"

You've changed.
You're in a mood to demand a lot more for your money. Good.
We've changed.
Chevrolet Camaro's advantages even include standard front disc brakes.

Camaro

Camaro has standard front disc brakes for excellent straight-line stopping and improved wet-weather performance. They're just one of the built-in advantages Camaro has over its nearest competitor. Here are some others:

The strength and quiet of a double-panel steel roof.

A roomier interior. Over 500 more square inches of glass. The extra protection of a steel luggage-compartment bulkhead. The corrosion barrier provided by four inner fenders. Camaro, with its superb handling. Closest thing to a Vette yet. Check into the competition. Then go to your Chevrolet dealer's and see how Camaro's value is already built in.

More for your money, including standard front disc brakes. A value showdown will prove it.

Nixon Wants Price Law Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration told Congress Tuesday it would accept an extension of the standby authority — so far unused by the President — to impose temporary wage-price controls.

A carefully worded statement by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally to the House Banking Committee did not rule out the rumored possibility of a wage-price freeze in the construction industry, although Connally said no general wage price controls are now needed.

The present authority for temporary controls on prices, rents, wages and salaries expires March 31 unless extended by Congress.

When the standby authority was originally voted last year, Nixon said he did not want such authority and did not intend to use it.

Democratic spokesmen repeatedly have criticized him for not invoking the authority or at least the possibility of its use to persuade business and labor to hold an anti-inflation line.

Connally told the committee "we also accept" the section of a pending bill that would extend the standby authority.

"I must point out, however, that we do not believe that a network of general wage-price controls is needed at this time, nor do we believe that the American people would long stand for such regimentation, under present circumstances," Connally said.

"Consequently, in accepting this section, we do so with the advance statement that we do not contemplate any circumstances—short of an all-out national emergency—in which the President would establish general wage-price controls without a further specific mandate from the Congress. This would provide evidence that a majority of the people favored such controls and would support these."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

This Mother Needs Nutrition Lessons

DEAR ABBY: There is a young woman living next door to us who is in the process of divorcing her husband. She has two beautiful sons, ages 3 and 7.

These children have not been fed properly, Abby. Once when I returned from the marketing I was putting away the groceries, the older boy asked if he and his brother could please share a carrot which they devoured like they were starving to death. Since then I give them a good nutritious meal with milk and fresh fruits and vegetables every day.

They have gone without lunch before I started to feed them. Their dinners consist of hamburgers from the corner drive-in. Their mother has a good job and could feed them properly, but she doesn't.

My husband and I don't mind feeding the boys but we won't always be living next to them, and the next neighbors may not want to be bothered.

Should I talk to the mother about the boys' nutrition? She is one of those hard, tough women who runs with a motorcycle crowd and may not appreciate my interest.

Brown Sets 'Crooked Cop' Task Force

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown Tuesday said he is establishing a special unit in his office to investigate "crooked policemen."

Brown told a news conference the unit would vary in size and would be comprised of investigators from the Bureau of Criminal Activities.

He said the unit would go into counties throughout the state at the request of the prosecuting attorney. He said chiefs of police may or may not know of his investigations.

Brown disclosed the new unit at the same time he announced an investigation of "Dare To Be Great, Inc.," a Florida-based company promoting motivation and self improvement courses. Brown said he was undertaking the investigation partly because of the sales pitch the firm presented at a recent Columbus meeting.

He said one of his agents, accompanied by a girl friend with a tape recorder in her purse, attended the session.

"From our initial investigation, it appears that Dare To Be Great, Inc., of Florida may be emphasizing the sale of distributorships of self improvement courses more than the sale of the courses themselves," Brown said.

He said prices of the distributorships range from $300 to $5,000 with emphasis on recruiting prospects for the higher priced "supervisory" positions.

"After the supervisor has paid for his position, he is encouraged to recruit sub-distributors, receiving a substantial fee for each one he recruits," Brown said. "If the product has questionable market acceptance, or the number of distributorships become too great, the distributors recruited in the last stages of the pyramid have no way of recouping their investment."

Brown called the firm's operation similar to a chain letters game, "except it isn't done through the mail."

"HOT PANTS BAG," it's called, as modeled by Muriel Franklin in New York. It's a Koret creation and comes in variety of colors.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Talk to her anyway. Don't be critical of her, and don't give her any cause to feel guilty and defensive, and she'll not be resentful. You have nothing to lose and you could help those boys a lot by educating their delinquent mother.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who gives her husband a birthday card with a note enclosed saying, "I owe you a present?"

HURT IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR HURT: It's better than being forgotten.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my sister, Brenda is 12 and I am 14. Our job is doing supper dishes every night. We have a system. I clear off the table and wash, and Brenda wipes and sweeps up. And we both put away. Doesn't that sound fair to you? Well, Brenda always gripes that her job is harder than my job, and she picks a fight, then my mother hears us fighting in the kitchen so she comes in and chases us both out and ends up doing everything herself. Brenda goes out and watches television and I don't even want to be in the same room with her so I go to my bedroom. How can I teach Brenda a lesson?

JILL

DEAR JILL: Since the argument is always over whose job is harder and you think they're equal, offer to switch jobs with Brenda. And if she still complains, tell her to keep her voice down. Kids have been using this dodge to get out of helping their mothers for years because they know mother would rather do it herself than referee a fight.

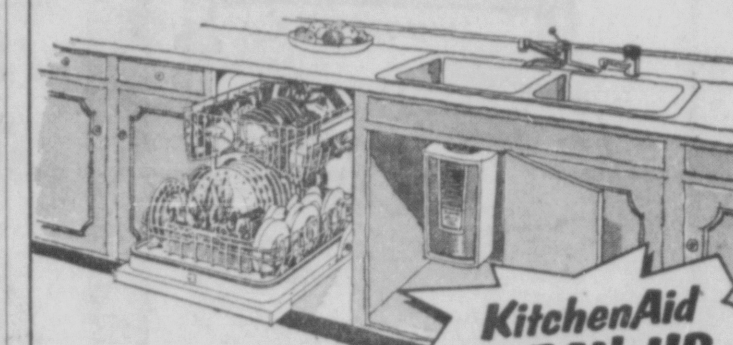

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever possible to forgive and forget?

TRYING HARD

DEAR TRYING: Yes, But don't dwell on what it is you're "forgiving," or you'll never forget.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Doctor Seeks Awareness Of Childhood Aphasia

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — When Johnny hadn't begun to talk by his second birthday, his parents began to worry.

They knew it wasn't uncommon for toddlers to wait until 30 months or even three years before speaking in two- and three-word sentences. But they also knew that an infant quickly learns to understand portions of his parents' speech, even if he isn't talking yet.

And that's what concerned Johnny's parents, because their son, besides not speaking, didn't seem to be listening.

It wasn't a hearing problem, because he would run to the telephone when it rang, jump at the blare of a horn or sit enraptured by music on the phonograph.

But if an adult spoke, Johnny would stare blankly, unresponding. It was as if he could hear everything normally, except human speech.

Johnny's symptoms could have been diagnosed as any of several disorders—deafness, mental retardation, even mental illness.

But the child's physician was especially perceptive and Johnny's parents lived in the San Francisco Bay area. So he was referred to the Scottish Rite Institute for Childhood Aphasia at the Stanford University School of Medicine in Palo Alto.

There, institute director Dr. Jon Eisenson and his staff of neurologists, linguists, psychologists and speech therapists correctly diagnosed Johnny's condition. He had developmental aphasia, a subtle, little recognized brain disorder, probably the result of a birth defect, that impaired his ability to discriminate among spoken sounds.

That was three years ago. Now, after careful treatment at the institute, Johnny is listening, speaking and preparing to enroll in the first grade with normal 6-year-olds.

Stanford's facility is the only one of its kind in the country and the institute has become the pioneer in treatment and research into the disorder.

Doctors don't know how many children there are like Johnny or how many are being incorrectly diagnosed and improperly treated. Eisenson thinks the number is substantial.

"It's just been in the last 20 years that we've begun to recognize the aphasic child for what he is," Eisenson said in an interview. "Before that, he often was thought of as deaf, a slow learner, mentally retarded or emotionally disturbed. Unfortunately, many are still diagnosed like that."

When aphasia is part of several brain disorders, such as in mental retardation, its diagnosis isn't difficult. Treatment is part of the over-all scheme to teach the child to cope with life.

But when aphasia is the only disorder, as in Johnny's case, it is often incorrectly diagnosed. This has made Eisenson, at 63, a quiet reformer.

"If an aphasic child is incorrectly diagnosed and receives the wrong treatment, he will begin to reflect the therapy he is given," Eisenson said. "If he is treated as if he were mentally ill, he eventually will exhibit the symptoms of the mentally ill child."

Eisenson is gently critical of the medical profession and fellow psychologists.

"I'm concerned that so many pediatricians and child psychologists have only a marginal awareness of aphasia as a childhood problem. In cases where a physician isn't dealing with hard, obvious signs of a neurological disorder, he is likely to overlook something like aphasia as a possibility."

Aphasia in adults, especially stroke patients, has been recognized for some time, but the disorder wasn't fully understood in children. Then researchers discovered that the left half of the brain controls perception of speech, while the right half controls perception of other sounds—music, traffic noise or ringing bells.

That was why Johnny didn't respond to his parents' talk—something was wrong with the speech center in the left half of his brain.

"Eventually, a child will just tune out adults," Eisenson said. "He stops relating to human beings because he can't make any sense of the noises they are making. The perfect example is an aphasic child who prefers to watch television with the sound off."

Eisenson and his staff have found that an aphasic child, when discovered early enough, can be taught to function almost normally.

First, a child must be taught to appreciate the nature of symbols, particularly symbols used in language.

A therapist might teach a young patient that an object—such as an apple—is represented by the printed word "apple." The child would repeatedly be asked to match the apple with its word.

And each time, the child matched them, the therapist would repeat the word "apple."

Eventually, the child would learn to recognize the spoken sound for apple and repeat it.

In this manner, the vocabulary would be slowly expanded, with emphasis from the therapist on the child's inability to hear as rapidly as normal children or remember the order in which sounds were heard.

Therapists have found that once some form of communication is established with a child—words, pictures, objects—he grows increasingly responsive and eager to learn.

Eisenson said some inability to speak may stem from psychological defenses erected at an early age when a child first encountered difficulty understanding adults.

"The defenses may arise because the child is confronted with tasks which are beyond his coping ability at a given stage in his development," he said. "A child who has developed such defenses needs to be enticed back to exposure to speech and to his involvement with speech and with speakers."

Black Capitalism On The Move In Ohio

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A long-time base of black businessmen has been money. Now, they are finding solutions to that problem. The resulting increase in black business enterprise is reviewed in detail in the following story.)

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A decade ago a black businessman was someone who ran a barber shop, a cafe or a corner grocery store. Now, businesses operated by blacks are on the move.

In recent years black business enterprise in Ohio has expanded to include an engineering firm in Cleveland, a development corporation in Cincinnati, a supermarket in Columbus and thousands of others.

In Cleveland alone last year a special directory compiled by Black Pages, Inc., listed 4,000 black-owned businesses. "We haven't even scratched the surface of available opportunities," said one Negro entrepreneur.

For the black man the opportunity is two fold — to make money and to help the black community obtain jobs and independence at the same time.

The biggest change that has made increasing black participation in big business possible is the growing sophistication and confidence among blacks themselves.

"Higher education and exposure to economics have made the black community more enlightened in its approach to business and helped it to overcome its fear of going into it," said black attorney Napoleon Bell of Columbus, recently named by Gov. John J. Gilligan to the State Board of Tax Appeals. Bell is a product of the change he's talking about. This year he hopes to found a bank, a goal toward which he has been working for 12 years.

Another critical factor for blacks who want to go into business for themselves is money. Potential black entrepreneurs have been and still are dependent for loans upon sources controlled primarily by whites. Blacks have been told they could not borrow money because they did not have the necessary experience to succeed.

Now there are indications that financial institutions are eager to help black businessmen.

Last year the Small Business Administration loaned more than $2 million to blacks in Ohio and John R. Hall, regional director of the SBA in Columbus, said this year the figure will probably be higher. The Columbus region encompasses 65 counties.

Ralph Bolen, deputy manager of the Ohio Bankers Association, says the same trend is apparent in private lending institutions across the state.

"Banks are trying and coming up with new ideas to help black people get into business," Bolen said. "It's gaining more and more emphasis. Bankers and businessmen are more aware than ever of social problems and they're trying to help."

Like any other businessman, the black man who starts his own company wants to make money. But he often has another concern which his wife counterpart doesn't have to think about—the creation of opportunities for other members of his race.

Ernie Waits of Cincinnati is a good example. Waits founded the Ernest J. Waits and Associates agency two years ago to help members of minority groups find suitable jobs in industry and if the jobs don't exist to help create them.

Waits has turned his agency into a successful consulting firm with contracts with 22 corporations, among them the Ford Motor Co., Xerox and Avco.

"We are able to put talented minority people, who never had a chance, into positions of power," Waits said. "And they have been fantastically successful."

HEARINGS SET

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Preliminary hearings for six persons arrested in a drug raid at a night club this past weekend have been set for March 2. Municipal Court Judge Frank M. Wilcox set the date after the six pleaded innocent Monday to various drug charges.

Seven others entered no plea and their arraignment was continued until later this week.

The Co-owners of the night club — Albert L. Grosso, 24, of Lorain and Steve Santana, 23, of Elyria — pleaded innocent to charges of allowing use of their building for the sale of narcotics and bond was set at $5,000 each.

BACK WAGES SAID OWED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department said Tuesday almost 270,000 workers are due $55.2 million in back wages as a result of violations of federal labor laws in the past six months.

Robert D. Moran, administrator of the department's wage and hour division, said the illegally withheld wages represented violations of minimum wage, overtime, equal pay, age discrimination, and fringe benefit provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act and other laws.

Moran said the number of employees receiving inadequate overtime decreased but the number receiving less than the minimum wage increased during the period.

The sharpest increase, however, was in the number of employees underpaid because of age and sex discrimination, he said.

Moran said the number of children working illegally rose to 8,340 during the six-month period, an increase of 22 per cent over fiscal year 1970.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department said Tuesday almost 270,000 workers are due $55.2 million in back wages as a result of violations of federal labor laws in the past six months.

Robert D. Moran, administrator of the department's wage and hour division, said the illegally withheld wages represented violations of minimum wage, overtime, equal pay, age discrimination, and fringe benefit provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act and other laws.

Moran said the number of employees receiving inadequate overtime decreased but the number receiving less than the minimum wage increased during the period.

The sharpest increase, however, was in the number of employees underpaid because of age and sex discrimination, he said.

Moran said the number of children working illegally rose to 8,340 during the six-month period, an increase of 22 per cent over fiscal year 1970.

Tigers Dominate SCO Fete

WHAT'S THIS? — Referee Fred "Speeder" Davis checking at a safe distance, the damage that the vicious deputies may have done to Highway Patrolman Rick Hollins. Hollins, floored by one of the "Over the Hill Gang's" quick movements, was escorted from the floor by a patronizing Lt. Pribble, but returned to make his foul shots and get some more revenge before leaving the floor. His post and the Circleville firemen were victors in the Heart Fund benefit battle.

Patrol, Firemen Win Heart Games

By MICHELE HULSE
Herald Staff Writer

Basketball's history was not blemished — too much — in last night's title bouts between city and county enforcement and safety officials for the Heart Fund.

A little 4-year-old spectator summed up the city's match with his exclamation, "The firemen just put out the police!" The firefighter's noble leader, Lt. Mike Brown, blamed his team's excellent physical conditioning (The extra padding out front was just for effect!) for their score which nearly quadrupled the police's.

Highway Patrol snatched the dream of victory from the deputies, leaving "Dwight's Delights" over the hill, and halfway down the road, with a score of 62 to 38.

Fireman Dale Edwards hit the tipoff to teammate Brown who made a fantastic lunge toward the basket and missed. Police took control and zipped down to their goal, scoring the first points.

JERRY Smallwood's short legs did double time as he valiantly attempted to keep up with the ball. Lightning-swift Mike Eberhard got so carried away once in a drive to the basket, that he left the ball behind.

High school coaches would have held their heads in their hands had they been responsible for either squad.

"Pickle" Justice and Mike Brown were leading scorers for the bucket brigade, earning 16 points each. Tops in the police patrol was Pat "Stretch" Drewry who managed to stuff two buckets and one foul shot.

Most dedicated player for the police must have been Sgt. Larry Pontious who made several amazing basket attempts by breaking away from the crowd and thundering down the floor to a spot under the rim. At that point the bull-like charges came to an abrupt halt and the ball sailed straight into the air.

The South Central Ohio League held its winter banquet Tuesday night at Miami Trace High School with Circleville dominating the award list.

It was the night of the Tiger as Circleville took the laurels in basketball, baseball, wrestling and track.

Circleville led the SCOL all-star basketball team with John Hunt and Terry Morrison being selected to the first team. Dave Truex picked on the second team and Tom Bowers receiving honorable mention.

Other first team berths went to Glen MacDonald of Wilmington, Steve Bihl of Miami Trace, Dave Trefz of Greenfield and Dave DeWeese of Washington C. H. MacDonald was named honorary captain.

SECOND team spots were awarded to Ron Grove, Wilmington; Bruce Murphy, Hillsboro; Bill Head, Greenfield; and Jeff Pollock, Washington C. H.

Hillsboro's Don Jewett, who was injured in an automobile accident earlier in the season, attended the banquet and was given an honorary all-league award.

Coach John Lawhorn received the championship trophy on behalf of the Circleville team and school.

Coach Brent Bell accepted the wrestling championship trophy on behalf of the Circleville team which captured seven of the 13 titles.

Title winners for the Tiger matmen were Tom Frericks, Mark Davey, Bill Fowler, Doug Good, Doyle Kiser, Dave Webb and Jeff Harr.

Members of the 1970 SCOL all-star baseball team were recognized which included Circleville's Bryce Brown, Ty Ankrom, Mike Webb and Tom Bowers.

INDIVIDUAL track winners honored from Circleville's 1970 championship team were Dick Walters, Bill McGowan, Phil Pike and John Hunt.

Hillsboro High School was the 1970 golf champion.

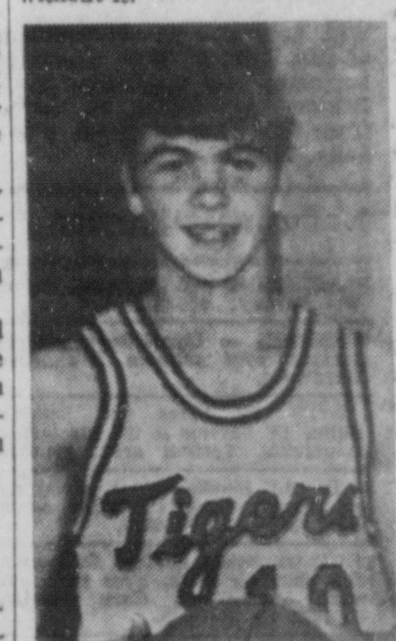

Vince Costello, former Cleveland Brown and New York Giant linebacker and now a coach with the Cincinnati Bengals, was the guest speaker.

He delighted the crowd with stories of his experiences in the National Football League and conveyed some sound advice to the athletes present at the dinner.

DAVE TRUEX

"You have to work hard to get to the top," Costello told the youthful gladiators, "and you have to work harder to stay there. If sports teaches you nothing else, it teaches you self discipline and you can't succeed without it."

TERRY MORRISON

Entertainment was furnished by the Miami Trace Folksters, under the direction of Miss Cinda Kelly.

A special plaque was presented to Mr. Shannon who is retiring after being principal of Hillsboro High School for 27 years.

The invocation and benediction was given by Rev. Herbert W. Veler, D. D., of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

Top-Ranked Prep Teams Set For Cage Tourneys

By GEORGE STRODE

Associated Press Sports Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The burden of being No. 1 will not hamper Columbus Walnut Ridge, Wellsville and Sidney Lehman Catholic in upcoming high school basketball tournaments, their coaches say.

"We wanted to be No. 1 in the poll. Now we want to prove we are No. 1," said Jack Moore of Class AAA king Columbus Walnut Ridge in The Associated Press poll.

"We've had pressure all year. We have a most relaxed bunch of young men. They take everything in stride," Bob Dawson of Class AA champion Wellsville said.

"I think earlier in the year the kids were a little shaky. Now they don't give it a second thought. We try to de-emphasize it and never mention No. 1," said Jerry DeLong, who guides Class A ruler Sidney Lehman.

Walnut Ridge, 17-0, takes on Columbus Hartley, 11-7, in the Columbus District Tournament Saturday.

Wellsville, with an 18-0 regular season mark, has drawn Martins Ferry, 11-6, in a first tournament game Monday night in the Steubenville Sectional. Sidney Lehman puts its 16-1 record on the line against Borkins, 9-11, of Shelby County in the Bellefontaine District Wednesday night.

An Athens Regional loss to Waverly last season started Walnut Ridge on its all-winning trail this winter.

"The kids dedicated themselves to not getting beaten again. They played all summer against college boys and even some pros. Greg Olson wore out three tennis shoes," Moore said.

The Scots rolled through the Columbus City League unbeaten, shooting 51 per cent as a team. The regulars, led by 6-foot-10 Ed Stahl's 22.5 average, hit 54 per cent of their floor shots.

Olson, 6-4, averaged 21 points and 5-10 Brad Hoffman, a transfer from Columbus South, 19.5 points. Walnut Ridge averaged a Columbus city record of 93 points and held the opposition to 64 points.

"Our success goes back to one idea," said Wellsville's Dawson. "You have to play well at both ends of the floor." The Tigers averaged 80 points and yielded only 49.

Joe March, a 6-1 senior, carries a 17.5-point average to lead four double-figure Wellsville scorers. John Lewis, 6-4; Larry Baldasaro, 6-3½; and Joe D-Aengelo, 6-foot, are the other main Tiger threats.

"I think Sherill Jackson is our key. He's the best defensive player in the state," said Dawson.

Sidney Lehman, a first-year consolidation of Sidney Holy Angels and Piqua Catholic, features "excellent shooters, tremendous team work and great defense," according to DeLong.

John Freytag, a 6-5 senior from Holy Angels, is the Cavaliers' leader with 23-point and 16-rebound averages.

"Our kids have done just about everything perfect," said DeLong, who coached Holy Angels to a district tournament title last year and beat Piqua Catholic in that game.

Personal fouls, always a tournament bugaboo, should not trouble the poll champions. All three have good benches, able to go at least two deep in reserves without affecting their lineups.

As a contrast, Edwards leaped like a ballerina, missing his shot but coming true at the foul line.

At half time Chief Temple told his boys in blue that should the score get any farther behind to cheat. He refused to be associated as coach of the assorted bunch.

BROWN and Skip Smales as team leaders confirmed in gasping sentences at the beginning of the second half that there would be no fast breaks, which Smales directly violated for two more points.

The firemen's Pigeon got a little confused, but managed to take one successful shot before the game ended with a score of 58-16.

Patrolman Lewis and Deputy Bost were top score makers in the first match, earning 21 and 10 points respectively.

"Super Nubbins" Sims defied his wife's wishes and joined the deputies, modestly attired in blue plaid bermudas and his green jersey.

With a little over one minute of the game completed, Bost had already found a seat on the sideline and met the floor several times after. He was also a very able assistant for the referees, calling more violations than both.

"Sure Shot" Schroer, the old man of "Pribble's Patrol" could always be counted on at the foul line. The crowd really went for his teammate Hollins who made a good showing, his form outshining former high school All Star Ron Lewis. Lewis nearly lost his head when Deputy Weikert dished out one of his fantastic fouls.

WEIKERT, Hartinger and Rhoads were the only three to foul out of the game — all deputies.

Hartinger's star began to fade when his adhesive tape came loose, but the deputies returned at the half with a second wind, which trickled into a light breeze.

In a final quarter tipoff, both centers missed, the ball bounced off Hoover's chest and knocked Sim's glasses off. The refs asked for two new men and succeeded in getting the quarter started.

The Heart Fund benefited some $430 from the event, many spectators got an evening of enjoyment and many players were stiff and sore this morning. Their movements displaying what their voices refused.

Tom Helms Eyes Better Batting Mark

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Second baseman Tommy Helms would like to bid a "companion" farewell and Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson sees no reason why he cannot.

The "companion" is the 237 batting average Helms slumped to last year and he did not forget it over the winter.

"It sure was tough living with that 237," Helms said Tuesday. "I took a lot of ribbing about that. I even had to bop one guy when he got a little frisky."

In 1969, Helms batted .281 and Anderson thinks he knows why Helms' average fell off.

"It was a case of Tommy never getting into shape," Anderson said. "Early in the year he's hit a ball good and it would go right at someone," Anderson continued. "Nothing was falling in. It got to be a mental thing."

"A guy never gets back when he goes too far into the spring without joining the club. It's too tough for them."

Helms, who missed about a month of spring training last year while debating contract issues with the Reds, was the first player to sign this year, so Anderson figures Helms will bounce back.

However, Anderson still has worries. Top regulars, including catcher John Bench, outfielder Pete Rose, third baseman Tony Perez, and pitchers Jim Merritt, Wayne Simpson, Wayne Granger, and Clay Carroll: still have not signed.

The entire squad is to report Thursday with workouts beginning Friday.

Dobson Admits Pill-Taking To Help Out In His Pitching

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chuck Dobson has thrown Bowie Kuhn a curve by making a pitch for the "Greenies."

While other pitchers loosened up their throwing arms at spring training camps Tuesday, the Oakland right-hander, questioned about baseball's upcoming drug seminars, admitted that he has taken pills called greenies and said, "I don't see anything wrong in it."

Dobson will attend one of the seminars, set for next month to begin a drug education and prevention program in baseball, as the A's player representative.

"I had to pitch last year with the flu," Dobson said at the club's Mesa, Ariz., training base, "so I took a greenie and pitched a shutout."

"If he (Commissioner Kuhn) says we can't use them, well, I'd just want him to put on a uniform for 162 games in 180 days and see what he says then."

Kuhn has said there is no place in baseball for amphetamines, or pep pills, and barbiturates. Dobson said the greenies, which contain dextroamphetamine sulfate and amobarbital, have been in use since he began playing pro ball six years ago.

He added, however, that no one on the Oakland club is dependent on the pills. "That's what you've got to watch," he said. "You can't let them be a crutch. You're in trouble if you say 'I need them.'"

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates began looking for a replacement for shortstop Gene Alley, sidelined for a month Monday with a broken hand.

Jackie Hernandez, acquired in a trade with Kansas City, appeared the likely choice but Manager Danny Murtaugh said he might try second baseman Dave Cash and third baseman Richie Hebner, among others, at the shortstop position.

Fred Patek, the 5-foot-4 shortstop who went from Pittsburgh to Kansas City in the Hernandez deal, signed with the Royals. Other signees were first baseman Mike Epstein and relief pitcher Darold Knowles with Washington, outfielder Larry Hise with Philadelphia and out-

10 Players Are Named As All-Stars

BLUFFTON, Ohio (AP) — Players from three Mid-Ohio Conference teams and two independents were named to the NAIA District 22 all-star basketball squad announced Tuesday by Dr. James Houdeshell, district chairman from Findlay.

Sterling Quant, a 6-foot-8 senior at Central State, was the favorite in this year's voting by 11 coaches, who could not vote for their own players. Quant received 95 of a possible 100 points.

Other team selections were 5-11 Tom Vessely of Wilmington, 6-6 Ken Richardson of Ohio Dominican, 6-5 Marty Arft of Findlay and 5-10 Ed Roeth of Defiance.

Named to the second team were 6-2 Danny Young of Central State, 6-3 Ken Burgei of Findlay, 6-9 Don Atherton of Cedarville, 6-3 Clair Recker of Bluffton and 6-2 Tony Bass of Rio Grande.

All of the first team selections are seniors except Richardson and Arft, who are juniors. On the second team, Atherton and Bass are seniors, Young and Burgei juniors and Recker, a sophomore.

Houdeshell was named district coach of the year. He guided Findlay to the Mid-Ohio Confer-fielder Buddy Bradford with Cleveland.

Pitcher Dave Boswell, a 20-game winner for Minnesota two years ago who slipped to 3-7 last season, checked into the Twins' camp six days late but 23 pounds under his 1970 playing weight. Boswell was given permission to report late because his wife gave birth last week.

The New York Yankees reported that reliever Lindy McDaniel would not be able to report until March 3 because of a gland operation on his neck.

Japan's Lotte Orions arrived at Casa Grande, Ariz., where they will train with the San Francisco Giants before embarking on a 25-game exhibition schedule against U.S. clubs.

Chicago Bears Play At Northwestern

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears will remain the Chicago Bears even though they'll be playing all their home games at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium in suburban Evanston the next five years.

The announcement was made Tuesday that the Bears had signed a five-year lease for use of the stadium, abandoning their Wrigley Field home of the last half century.

The move is subject to formal approval of the Big Ten which already had lifted its policy against professionals using campus facilities.

OSU Tops Iowa, 80-71

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's young basketball team took Fred Taylor for his word Tuesday night and owned the Big Ten lead as a result.

"Hit up your belts another notch. Use each other. That's all," the Buckeye coach told the squad after losing floor leader and scoring ace Jim Clemons with a wrist fracture.

Ohio State went out and trimmed Iowa 80-71 and shot into a one-half game conference lead over Michigan, an 88-79 victim at Indiana. The Buckeyes are 9-1, the Wolverines 8-1 in the Big Ten.

The Bucks roared into a 45-23 halftime lead, withstood an Iowa rally that cut the margin to 57-55 and won the game at the foul line. Both had 30 baskets, but Ohio State clicked on 20 of 25 free throws to 11 of 16 for the Hawkeyes.

With Clemons out of the Ohio

State-Michigan showdown Saturday at Ann Arbor, Iowa Coach Dick Schultz doesn't like the Buckeyes' chances as well.

"I think with Clemons Ohio State would have more than held its own," the first-year head coach at Iowa said.

"He stabilizes them. We wouldn't have come back with him in there. He prevented this sort of thing happening to this young club," Schultz said.

Dr. Luther Keith, a team physician, said more x-rays would be taken of Clemons' left wrist Friday. "We're 99 per cent sure now it's broken, but we want to be definite," he said.

He said Clemons' wrist would be in a cast for 12 weeks. The lone starting senior for the Buckeyes hurt it in a first-half fall against Northwestern Saturday night.

Clemons sat on the bench during the game and expressed confidence in his mates. "If they keep it up, they'll be okay," the 6-foot-3 all-round star said. He was averaging 18 points at the time of the injury.

Allan Hornyak, one of four starting sophomores for Ohio State, scored 16 of his 23 points in the first half. Luke Witte, another soph, had a career high 19 rebounds and added 22 points for the Buckeyes.

A 6-11 sophomore substitute, Omar Hazley poured in 20 of his 28 game-high points to ignite the Hawkeye rally and Schultz.

"That was by far his greatest effort of the season. That should show him what he can do," the Iowa coach said of Kunnert, averaging 8.1 points a game.

Dave Merchant, a sophomore who took over for Clemons, held Iowa scoring whiz Fred Brown four points under his average of 28 points and hit six points.

"Dave played pretty well for a kid coming into a situation like that. He's had a lot of experience though and been in there when the wicket was sticky," said Taylor.

Taylor said he hadn't seen Michigan on film this season. The Ann Arbor duel is their only meeting of the year.

"I don't see any of those guys play before we get them. It scares me," he said.

Elsewhere on an abbreviated Ohio college basketball card Tuesday night, Otterbein posted its 18th win in 21 starts by downing Central State 59-53; Baldwin-Wallace, paced by Dean Martin with 31 points, defeated Walsh 99-87; Steve Davis netted 33 points to lead Ohio Northern to a 89-73 victory over Mid-Ohio Conference champion Findlay 67-64; Urbana beat Northwood, Ind. 91-87.

Bucks Defeat Warriors; Tie For Crown

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It's try out time for the Milwaukee Bucks again.

With a convincing 118-107 National Basketball Association victory over the San Francisco Warriors Tuesday night, the Bucks clinched a tie for the Midwest Division title.

In other NBA games, San Diego rushed past the New York Knicks 126-109, Philadelphia downed Portland 119-113 and Los Angeles overcame Baltimore 114-107.

Now Bucks' Coach Larry Costello is taking a long look at his bench with one month left to go in the regular season. Although the NBA doesn't keep such records, it is believed to be the earliest division-clinching in the league history.

"We tried to give a lot of guys time and moved Greg Smith back to guard," Costello said after the game. "We want to take a look at our bench and give the regulars a rest."

Even with the "bench-warmers" in the game, Milwaukee had an easy time downing the Warriors for the sixth time this season.

Oscar Robertson paced the victory with 26 points, one more than Lew Alcindor, and established a club record for assists. The old mark, set in the 1968-69 season by Guy Rodgers, was 561.

Robertson, the NBA's career leader, now has 563.

San Francisco was led by sharp-shooting Nick Jones with 31, while Nate Thurmond added 24.

Neither Costello, a former player, nor Robertson felt the Bucks' edge would slip because of the early title-clinching.

A Milwaukee victory over the San Diego Rockets tonight would settle the issue completely.

Nixon Shelves Wage Rule, Avoids Full Freeze

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Backing away from a wage-price freeze, President Nixon has shelved union wage standards on federal building projects in hopes of controlling inflation in the massive construction industry.

Top union and management leaders immediately attacked the President's move as an inadequate and ineffective way to moderate the upward spiral of wages and prices in the building industry.

By choosing this relatively mild step, Nixon left himself open to charges he isn't willing to go far enough to bring inflation under control.
Declaring an inflation emergency exists in construction, Nixon Tuesday suspended indefinitely the 1931 Davis-Bacon Act requiring payment of prevailing wages on federal building jobs.

The effect is to free contractors from paying workers union wages prescribed by the government on projects involving federal money. Only new government projects are affected by the decision.
"The mere suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act may have some long-range results but it will not help in any way to stop the demands for huge wage increases with 1,368 construction agreements set to expire this year," said William E. Dunn, executive director of the Associated General Contractors of America.

In Miami Beach, AFL-CIO President George Meany said Nixon's move will "have no real effect on halting inflation."
He called it "an open invitation to unscrupulous employers to exploit workers by competitive undermining of fair wages and labor standards."

For more than a week, the administration had let it be known it was seriously considering a freeze on wages, prices and profits in the construction industry, where pay settlements averaged more than 18 per cent last year and costs have soared.
But Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told reporters, "The President simply didn't want to try to enforce a wage-price freeze or government-imposed controls on a reluctant industry."

Nixon said in a statement the Davis-Bacon suspension was "the most appropriate of the actions which are available to me at this time."

He called on states and other government units with similar prevailing-wage laws to take similar action.

"Wage rates on federal projects have been artificially set by this law," Nixon said, "rather than by customary market forces."

"Frequently, they have been set to match the highest wages paid on private projects. This means that many of the most inflationary local wage settlements in the construction industry have automatically been sanctioned and spread through government contracts."

The President's action is applicable to some $25 billion in federal and federally-aided construction projects.

Nixon acted after Hodgson said he could give no assurance the industry could ever work out a voluntary agreement for controlling the wage-price spiral.

Nixon said inflation in the construction industry is felt in all parts of society. "As construction costs go up, so does the price for buying or renting new homes and apartments. Because the entire economy is affected by rising construction costs, other prices are driven up also."

Nixon acted under a section of the Davis-Bacon Act providing: "In the event of a national emergency, the president is authorized to suspend the provisions of this act."

Despite the uncertain impact, this was Nixon's strongest move yet in pursuing a newly adopted "incomes policy," use of direct government intervention to hold down inflationary wage and price movements.

For Federal Test Center
Ohio's Chances Said Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan says the state has "a good shot" at getting the $15 million National Center.

"We are one of a couple of states the site has been narrowed down to," Gilligan told newsmen Tuesday following a 45-minute meeting with Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe.

"They are giving it very, very serious consideration and we are right up on the lip of the whole thing," Gilligan said.

The governor said he told Volpe during the meeting that Ohio will "tailor make" the national test center to any specification if the government picks a proposed site near East Liberty, Ohio.

The state-owned land is one of 10 proposed sites for the national center, which will test automobile safety devices to determine whether they comply with new regulations.

The Ohio Highway Transportation Research Center is being built on the state property. Gilligan and other members of the Ohio delegation tried to persuade Volpe it would be to the federal government's advantage if the state and national testing centers were located near each other.

Accompanying Gilligan at the meeting in Volpe's headquarters were Sens. Robert Taft Jr. and William B. Saxbe, Rep. Clarence J. Brown and State Rep. Gordon Scherer of Cincinnati, all Republicans. Gilligan is a Democrat.

Scherer, who also is on the board for the state research center, said his impression is that the choice is between the Ohio site and Pueblo, Colo.

Gilligan said he emphasized to Volpe that Ohio has the acreage, the working capital, the close proximity to automobile plants and congressional support.

Volpe indicated that a decision on the location can be expected in about a month.

Gilligan is in Washington for the National Governors' Conference. Tuesday night, he and his wife attended a White House governors' dinner hosted by President and Mrs. Nixon.

Brown Says Water Board
Probe Part Of Broad Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown says his investigation of procedures used by the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board is part of an over-all assault on pollution and environmental problems.

Calley . . .

Q. You didn't mean for him to kill them?

A. Not if he could move them, no, sir. I am still worried about the minefield, sir.

Calley said he left the area and returned later to find Meadlo still with the captives.

"What did you say to him?" Daniel asked.

"Told him if he couldn't move the people, then waste them, sir."

The lieutenant said he walked away to the southeast.

Q. What did Meadlo do?

A. I don't know, sir.

Q. You didn't look back?

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn't care whether he obeyed that order either?

A. I felt like he would.

Earlier, when asked why he told Meadlo to kill the people, Calley replied: "Because that was my order, sir, that was the order of the day, sir."

"Who gave that order?"

"My commanding officer, sir . . . Capt. Medina, sir."

He explained:

"I was ordered to go in there and destroy the enemy. . . . That was the mission I was given. I did not sit down and think in terms of men, women and children. They were all classified the same, and that was the classification we dealt with, just as enemy soldiers."

"Now I will ask you this," his attorney said, nearing the end of direct examination. "Whatever you did at My Lai on that occasion, I will ask you whether in your opinion you were acting rightly and according to your understanding of your direction and orders."

Said Calley:

"I felt then and I still do that I had acted as I was directed, and carried out the orders that I was given, and I do not feel wrong in doing so, sir."

Calley told the six-officer jury, five of whom have served in Vietnam, that "there is no way I could fully emphasize in this court the combat situation as I saw it there."

"It's almost completely impossible unless we could move this court and put it under fire right out there on one of the rice paddies and watch people getting killed."

Calley said he was promoted to first lieutenant after My Lai and continued to command troops.

He concluded there was an investigation because two days after the mission the brigade commander talked with Medina.

"When Capt. Medina came back over to us he said something to the effect of: 'Well, looks like I'm going to jail for 20 years,'" Calley related.

At that time, right after the bloody Tet offensive of early 1968, commanders put much stress on body count, the defendant said.

"Every company was competing with body counts," he added. "Everybody wanted their companies to have the highest body counts."

And how were body counts arrived at?

"You just make an estimate off the top of your head," said Calley, who reported 50 killed by his platoon in My Lai.

"There is now no way really to figure out exactly a body count. At that time, anything went into a body count, VC, buffalo, pigs, cows. If something is dead, you put it on your body count, sir."

Medina is undergoing pretrial investigation at Ft. McPherson on charges of over-all responsibility for the deaths at My Lai.
